REVIEWING CANADA-U.S. TALKS

Canadians Confident U.S. to End Oil Curb

By HAROLD MORRISON

See also Page 5

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the most significant decisions reached at the Canada-United States talks just concluded, Canadian sources say, is that the two countries now will have a strong, common approach to the problem of European economic integration.

They are convinced that as a result of the private two-day ministerial discussions, the U.S. will take more vigorous action in the next few months in attempts to end the trade fight between France and Britain and to obtain faster European dismantling of discriminations against North American goods.

These decisions were not readily apparent from the wording of the 1,500-word communique issued Tuesday night. Informants said it was necessary to write the statement in general terms for political and other reasons.

Neither Canada nor the U.S. wants to give any impression that the two countries will take sides in the French-British fight over the developing of a 17-country European free trade area as an extension of the six-country Common Market.

But it appears likely now that pressures may be exerted on both Britain and France to try to get together in order that Europe may not be weakened and split on the trade front and thus increase the possibilities of Soviet economic infiltration.

Concessions Gained From U.S.

On the domestic scene, Canadians feel they got a few concessions from the Americans which again were not too clearly stated in the communique. They feel they will get sympathetic American consideration when the current voluntary U.S. oil import curbs are changed Feb. 28.

There is high hope here that the curbs will be eliminated as far as Canada is concerned, perhaps on the grounds that the cross-border flow of oil should not be impeded because of the needs of continental defence.

There is confidence here that the Americans will be more careful in dealing with issues which could impinge on Canadian sovereignty over Canadian companies. The meeting is likely to lead to an American review of the U.S. anti-trust lawsuit dealing with American establishment of an electronics patents pool in Canada.

Definite decisions were not reached on every issue before the ministers. No one in Canadian quarters expected they would be. But they feel that progress is being made.

Face Firing Squad

HAVANA (AP)—Ten officers of former dictator Fulgencio Batista's armed forces have been executed in eastern Cuba, the revolutionary regime announced today.

Among those shot was Col. Arcadio Castillo Lumpuy, chief of Batista's operations in Oriente province, of which Santiago is the capital.

New Soviet Demand

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union insisted today that the United States and Britain drop their proposal to ban nuclear weapons tests on a year-by-year basis. Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said Russia wants this question settled now. The Russians seek a permanent ban.

CONTROVERSY RAGES, BUT...

U.K. Theatres Keep Anthem

LONDON (Reuters)—British movie theatres are unlikely to change their policy of playing the National Anthem at the end of a performance, as suggested by The Manchester Guardian.

A spokesman for one of the big theatre chains, Associated British Cinemas, said today:

"The mass of the people obviously want it. We are certainly not considering any change."

The Guardian had published a letter from a reader complaining that a young man at a Sheffield theatre asked him to excuse him so that he could make his way to the aisle while the anthem was being played.

"His surprise was genuine when I refused," the reader said.

This, the reader said, could not have happened before 1939 and he wondered whether such men would help England win another war.

Other letters followed, some critical, others in support.

On Monday The Manchester Guardian said that most movie theatre goers were patriotic citizens who sincerely wished that God might save the Queen.

Some took the playing of the anthem seriously indeed and were offended by a rush to the

VANCOUVER 'COPYCATS' AFTER PAN-AM GAMES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alderman Frank Baker asked city council today to make application to have the 1963 Pan-American Games staged in Vancouver.

His request had support from new Mayor Tom Alsbury. It followed receipt of a letter from Alan McGavin, chairman of the Canadian Pan-American Games Committee, asking applications from Canadian cities.

Victoria city council also is considering applying for the 1963 games. Mayor Percy Scourrah said Tuesday the city may apply. Winnipeg, meanwhile, has had a committee working on an application since last fall.

Mikoyan Guest Of Cyrus Eaton

WIRE BRIEFS

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet space rocket went into orbit around the sun today and became the first artificial planet of the solar system, Moscow Radio said. The broadcast said the rocket has covered a distance of 14,500,000 kilometres (9,962,500 miles).

Caravan Captured

ALGIERS (UPI)—French troops killed 24 Algerian rebels and captured a camel caravan carrying arms for the nationalists today in a stepped-up campaign to end the wave of terror spreading over Algeria since the New Year.

$17 Million Seized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. government has impounded $17,000,000 brought into this country at Key West, Fla., by a fleeing pro-Batista senator, informed sources said today.

DULLES 'FINE' AFTER VIRUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles was back at his desk in the state department today after a bout with a virus infection. Aides said: "He's feeling fine."

(Dulles cancelled a planned trip to Ottawa this week because of the illness.)

Farmers To March On Ottawa

REGINA (CP)—Prairie farmers have warned Ottawa to beware the Ides of March.

That is the probable period when hundreds of Westerners will descend on the Canadian capital, demanding deficiency payments for wheat, oats, and barley—delivered during the last three years.

President Alf Gleave of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union said in an interview Tuesday plans for the march are progressing well, with the Manitoba and Alberta unions, as well as the Alberta and Saskatchewan wheat pools, behind it. No definite date has been set, he said, "but beware the Ides of March."

SEEK POLICY

"While our main purpose is to get consideration for the grain producer and to raise the farmer's purchasing power," Mr. Gleave said, "we are interested in establishment of an over-all agricultural policy to assure farmers a fair share of the national income and parity of income."

"Our purpose is not to embarrass the government but to inform the government, the press, and the public about the farmer's plight."

In their march, the farmers will have the moral support of Saskatchewan's CCF government.

$18M Bridge Plan

DETROIT (AP)—Engineering proposals for an $18,000,000 bridge to link the Sault Ste. Maries of Michigan and Ontario were to be unveiled today.

Space Challenge Faces New Congress Session

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new 86th Congress convened today with a Democratic leadership pledge of "responsible service" and a Republican minority operating under a changed command in both the House and Senate.

An economy challenge from President Eisenhower and a space challenge from the Russians were expected to dominate the first session of the Congress.

The Congress with which Eisenhower must deal in his last two years in the White

Bennett, Grauer Under Fire From Briggs

By HAL MALONE

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer are talking the "sheerest kind of economic poppycock" when they say the Columbia, Peace River power schemes can be developed simultaneously.

H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the B.C. Power Commission made this unequivocal statement to the Shrum-Royal Commission today.

Mr. Briggs also told the Shrum Commission:

1. There should be several years between the development of the Columbia and the Peace with the Columbia taking precedence;

2. The Canadian side of the Columbia has a potential 2,700,000 horsepower and the Canadian-controlled storage water may be worth as much as 1,300,000 horsepower.

3. Premier Bennett reacted strongly when he was told by the Power Commission that private power costs more than public power because of the difference in the treatment of corporation income taxes;

4. That the premier told power commissioners they could tell him "what we wanted if we liked, but letters were not to be written to him";

5. That public ownership of a natural monopoly such as power—"using the resources of the people"—is not Socialism "but economic common sense";

6. Columbia power could be brought to the coast in large quantities for two to three mills;

7. That the BCE told the Public Utilities Commission in 1957 its anticipated annual load growth requirements were 220,000 horsepower; and

8. That Peace River Canyon power (promoted by Axel Wenner-Gren and the Peace River Power Development Corporation) will not be developed except in a small way, unless and until:

(a) An extremely large power-consuming industry, requiring several hundred thousand horsepower, is established in the region;

(b) A shortage of lower cost hydro power develops in the central, southern or coastal regions of B.C., Alberta or the U.S.;

(c) A private company commences a superficial development with the intention of complying with the minimum government requirements to retain the developmental licence over a period of years, in order that eventually, it may own and control "this tremendous block of 4,000,000 horsepower."

Shrum Asks Gibbs for Correction

At the outset of today's hearing, Dr. Shrum called on Liberal MLA Archie Gibbs to correct an erroneous statement he made in a CBC political broadcast Monday.

Mr. Gibbs, who was not present today, told his radio audience Monday that the Shrum Commission had refused Mr. Briggs' counsel an opportunity to cross-examine Dr. J. V. Fisher, government economic adviser.

Earl Vance, who is counsel for Mr. Briggs with Hugh McGivern, agreed with Dr. Shrum that he had reserved his right to cross-examine Dr. Fisher.

Dr. Shrum opened his remarks with: "This is an inquiry, not a trial. Some allegations have been made. We are trying to establish their validity."

He praised the press and radio for a "good job" when faced with a "difficult problem" but said that Mr. Gibbs' statement appeared to have misinformed the public.

Dr. Shrum called on the MLA to have the statement corrected on the next CBC free-time, political broadcast next Monday.

Mr. Briggs' evidence on public-private power and power development by the Power Commission in the Peace River and northern interior was allowed by Dr. Shrum over the double objections of A. Bruce Robertson, counsel for the B.C. Power Corporation and its affiliated companies, including the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Robertson, who is also a director of Peace River Power Development Corporation, said Mr. Briggs' testimony on public-private power "bears no relation to the terms of reference" of the Shrum Commission.

The commission, consisting of Dr. Shrum, commissioners John Dunsmuir and William

Seizure Power Used Again If Needed, Unions Warned

Premier Bennett has told the B.C. Federation of Labor he will use the Civil Defence Act again in a labor dispute if he considers it necessary, a federation official disclosed Tuesday.

Pat O'Neal, newly-appointed federation secretary, said Mr. Bennett made the statement after hearing a brief from the federation in Victoria.

The federation asked the provincial government to request a ruling from the courts on the Bennett administration's seizure of the Black Ball ferry fleet last summer when the line was tied up by a labor dispute.

The seizure was made under powers given the government through the Civil Defence Act.

"We protested to the premier on his use of the Civil Defence Act in labor disputes," O'Neal told Vancouver Labor Council.

"but he made it clear that this legislation would be used again if in his judgement it was necessary."

O'Neal said the situation posed "a serious and grave threat" to organized labor.

The federation earlier dropped plans to test the legality of the seizure.

The 110,000-member organization's lawyers advised against court action because

"previous court rulings reflect that judges have not looked with favor on pursuing a subject through the courts when the particular incident no longer exists."

The federation had doubled its budget and increased dues to pay for a court test.

O'Neal also reported Premier Bennett said the government could have taken over the B.C. Electric Co. "many years ago" but that now it was too big to buy.

The federation official said the premier made his remarks in reply to submissions that power companies should be publicly owned.

SNOW DRIFTS STALL TRAINS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two trains carrying 700 weary passengers arrived here Tuesday night. One was 86 hours late and the other 64.

They were stuck in snow drifts in the Clarendville area. A westbound train which left St. John's Jan. 2 arrived at Port aux Basques today—more than 100 hours behind schedule. The 550-mile trip normally takes 24 hours. It was also stuck near Clarendville.

Plows Free 300 Trapped In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—Snow-plows today opened an escape route for some 300 travellers trapped in Napierville, Que., by wind-whipped snowdrifts.

Napierville police said rescue teams reached their community 25 miles south of Montreal today, after cutting through 20-foot-high snowdrifts that blocked a Montreal-United States road.

Traffic was reported to be moving normally again.

It had been estimated that about 300 persons, most of them from the U.S., had taken refuge in garages, restaurants, hotels and homes at Napierville. Some 70 families were marooned in homes elsewhere in the district.

Gales Lash Europe Coast

LONDON (UPI)—Howling gales with a hurricane punch lashed northern Europe today, killing at least four persons and filling the air with SOS calls from stricken shipping.

The known fatalities occurred in Kjoelheffjord, Norway, where an avalanche swept a hillside home into the sea. A 60-year-old man, his daughter and her two infant children were carried away.

Snow and ice blanketed northern England and Scotland, while further south the River Weiland was near the flood stage. Towering breakers flooded the coast road near the English town of Dovercourt.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill returned to the political wars for a brief 15 minutes Tuesday night to pledge to fight for a Conservative party victory in Britain's next general election.

The 84-year-old former prime minister, who is partially deaf in one ear and showing other signs of age, did not say whether he would be a candidate for re-election.

He called 100 party organizers from his Woodford constituency to a London hotel for a pep-talk.

He promised to be on hand to a press a bigger party rally in April after he returns from a painting holiday in the sun of Marrakesh, Morocco.

OPORTO, Portugal—Seven men and two women have been given short jail sentences and small fines for attacking a German woman who wore slacks when she visited their village.

The sight of the trouser-wearing woman was something new for the residents of the Rio Tinto region. They gathered around and threatened her, then got into a fight with the woman and her husband.

ROME — "The Italian press reported today that another niece of Sir Anthony Eden is going to marry another mechanic from the honeymoon island of Ischia.

An Italian news agency reported from Naples that Elfrida Eden, 18-year-old niece of the former British prime minister, would follow in the footsteps of her sister, Amelia, by going to the altar with an Italian mechanic.

Amelia, 25, married ferry boat engineer Giovanni Berelli last September and now lives on Ischia, a neighbor island of Capri, off Naples.

VINCENNES, Ind. — A city councilman says he is quitting his campaign against indecent magazines on Vincennes newsstands.

Marvin Miller said that while he was suggesting that a magazine dealer remove a display of nude femininity from his newsstand, two elderly women came in and asked for "pinup pictures of men with big muscles."

VATICAN CITY—An Italian radio-TV tin pan band which plays on washboards and winejugs showed up today at a papal audience and banged out a clanging version of the Rome song "Nanni" for Pope John.

Funeral Thursday For Shoeshine Man

Funeral services for Sam Lowe, popular shoeshine man at the Empress Hotel for nearly 18 years, will be held at the Thompson Funeral Chapel, 1825 Quadra, on Thursday at 3 p.m. followed by interment at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Rev. C. Y. Chow, minister of the Chinese United Church, will officiate.

Relatives from distant parts of B.C. and Canada arrived here today to attend the funeral. They include Sam's nephew, John Lowe, from Toronto, and three cousins, Lowe Wah from South Slokan, B.C.; Lowe Dick from Vancouver, and Lowe Wing of Victoria.

One of the pallbearers will be Lee Hay, a life-long friend of Sam Lowe. Both came here from Hong Kong nearly 50 years ago and have relatives there.

"Sam was a fine fellow," Lee said. "He was very good friend to many people and he contributed to Chinese charities including the Chinese Benevolent Association."

Sam Lowe died at his home Saturday night after receiving a letter from Hong Kong. Friends said he did not have time to read the letter before he died from a heart attack.

'GIVE ME STEAK, I'LL HELP YOU DIG ME OUT'

Buried Alive 12 Hours Workman Survives Ordeal

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A workman trapped for more than 12 hours at the bottom of a collapsed cesspool was rescued today.

A heavy crane finally jerked loose a metal plate pinning Leslie O. Stafford's foot at the bottom of the 24-foot hole and he pulled himself free.

Stafford, 40 and husky, had spent agonizing hours trying to free himself. His rescuers said he appeared to be in excellent condition. He was taken to hospital.

Because of the close quarters and the danger of shifting sand, no one else could reach Stafford's foot. Someone stayed with him in the shaft to offer encouragement but he had to do the work of freeing his foot alone.

He banged away with a chisel, broke blade after blade on a power saw, and tried unsuccessfully to move the plate with a powerful spreader jack. Finally a crane was backed into position and a hook lowered to the trapped man. He fastened it to the metal and the crane hoisted it far enough for him to pull his foot out.

Judge Heads Parole Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Magistrate Thomas George Street of Welland, Ont., known for his keen interest in the reform and rehabilitation of those he has sentenced, today was named chairman of the new National Parole Board.

The other members of the four-man board:

J. Alex Edmison, 55, director of endowment and public relations at Queen's University, Kingston, an executive of the John Howard Society of Ontario and a member of the federal Fauteux committee on penal reform.

Frank Patrick Miller, 47-year-old assistant director of the justice department's remissions branch.

Edouard Dion, 45, of New Carlisle, Que., where he has been Crown attorney since 1945.

Salary for the chairman will be $16,500 a year and for the three other members $15,000.

The appointments, effective Jan. 1, are for 10 years.

Mr. Fulton said "it is hoped that the new board will be in operation by Feb. 1."

The board, provided for in legislation approved by all parties at the last session of Parliament, will replace the 60-year-old remission service of the justice department which administered the Ticket of Leave Act. The new Parole Act will replace the Ticket of Leave Act when the board begins operating.

Mr. Fulton indicated that parole board suggestions in the Fauteux committee's 1956 report were closely followed in making the appointments.

The committee suggested a five-man board drawn from the judiciary, the remission service, the penitentiary administration, police and a voluntary after-care agency.

The parole board legislation provides that the board review the case of every prisoner serving two years or more, whether or not a review is applied for by the prisoner.

Ex-Victorian Named To New Canada Body

Appointment of native Victorian Frank Patrick Miller, 47, to the National Parole Board was termed "a wonderful chance for him to carry on with the splendid work he has been doing" by his colleagues in the remissions service today.

F. Ward Cook, regional representative of the service in Vancouver, said he had known Miller for seven years, "a most conscientious person with a deep sense of responsibility."

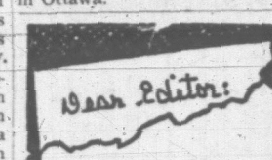

"I know he will carry out his duties with success."

Frank Miller was born in Victoria in 1911, educated at North Vancouver High School and University of B.C., obtaining a B.A. in theology.

His parents died in Crescent, B.C., about a year ago. His father, the Rev. J. Wesley Miller, was minister of Port Alberni Methodist Church.

Frank Miller has a brother, Dean Miller, B.C. manager of Public and Industrial Relations Ltd., living in Vancouver, and a sister, Mrs. William Sansburn, of San Francisco. He is married, with two daughters and a son, and lives in Ottawa.

Easy to Get Man in Space, But Not Back

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians say the chief unsolved problem in sending men cruising among the planets is how to bring them down again.

Soviet scientists expressed this view Tuesday as they reported cosmic rocket Mechta still speeding toward an orbit around the sun. One physicist, Prof. Vladimir Dobronarav, commented:

"A perfectly realistic foundation for the development of interplanetary travel already exists and in the near future man can set foot on other planets."

During the 62 hours and 370,960 miles Mechta was radioing information back to earth, Dobronarav said, its internal temperature and pressure remained within set bounds. The temperature had been reported earlier at 50 to 60 degrees.

This means Russia soon will know how to create proper climatic conditions for men inside rockets, Dobronarav claimed.

But the re-entry problem—getting man back through the earth's atmosphere—remains.

The two main problems of re-entry are protecting a rocket from air friction which might burn it up like a meteor and breaking its fall so it does not smash into the earth.

The United States has developed ballistic missile warheads that withstand re-entry friction and are large enough to carry a small monkey. American scientists have proposed small retro-rockets fired against the direction of the return flight to brake the descent.

OUT OF TOUCH

Reported more than 500,000 miles from earth Tuesday, Mechta is expected to go into orbit around the sun today or Thursday. With its radios dead, however, there no longer is any way of tracking the rocket.

A Soviet physicist told a questioner the rocket was aimed to pass the moon so it could best measure the moon's magnetic core and radio activity. "Had the rocket impacted against the moon we would have had only a partial answer," he said.

REDS HURL 15,000 SHELLS AT QUEMOYS

TAIPEI (AP)—The Chinese Communists pounded the Quemoy Islands today with their heaviest fire in two months.

The Nationalist defence ministry reported more than 12,000 shells landed on the offshore islands between 2 and 4 p.m. and said the bombardment was continuing without a letup.

The ministry said the Nationalist guns fired back vigorously.

Cuba Sweeps Out Batista Backers

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuba's new provisional government polished up a new interim constitution today as the work of weeding out remnants of Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship went forward.

The new cabinet met far into the night working on a new fundamental law to replace the constitution of 1940 until the holding of free elections.

It was not immediately learned how the new government charter would differ from the old one, which was adopted during Batista's first period of power. Presumably the interim constitution will be replaced after a new congress is elected.

Provisional President Manuel Urrutia dismissed all provincial governors, mayors and councilmen in the island's six provinces Tuesday. Presumably a new list of civilian appointees to replace them was ready, although it was not announced immediately.

The new cabinet was reported preparing a decree abolishing all political parties and taking away the political rights of all candidates in the 1954 and 1958 elections held by Batista. This would bar even the opposition candidates tolerated by Batista from the elections.

which Urrutia has promised to hold in 18 to 24 months.

Informed sources said other cabinet decrees would freeze the private bank accounts of all Batista officials and stop payment on all cheques outstanding against the treasury. It was problematical, however, how much this could recover for the government since the custom for Cubans profiting most from the government has been to bank in the United States or Europe.

'MUNITIONS KING' GETS STEEL MONOPOLY

Wenner-Gren Behind Krupp?

BONN, Germany (AP)—Alfried Krupp, the German munitions king of the Second World War, has bought out another concern and emerged as West Germany's leading steelmaker.

Krupp has purchased the Bochumer Verein with a capital of $23,000,000. He already operates the Rheinhausen steel plant capitalized at $27,500,000.

(New stories originating in European newspapers last March indicate Axel Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist now mapping an industrial power empire in northern B.C., was former owner of Bochumer Verein.)

(The newspapers said Wenner-Gren gained control of the firm followed the Second World War.

(The European newspapers said Wenner-Gren acted as a dummy for Krupp in regaining the industrial might Krupp lost when the allied victory forced breaking-up of his holdings.)

With the two companies going full blast, Krupp interests now will turn out 4,000,000 tons of steel a year.

The move was a further step in the growing concentration of industrial might in this country despite vigorous efforts once exerted by the Victorians once exerted by the victorious Allied powers to break up German cartels after the war.

Krupp actually is under orders to break up his coal and steel empire. The Allies signed a treaty with West Germany under which this divestment was to have been accomplished by the end of 1958.

Why did he want to write to Hitler?

Here, for the first time, is the real story of King George VI, written at the Queen's request. Read how he viewed the happenings of his troubled reign. Why did he want Lord Halifax as his wartime premier? What was his opinion of President Roosevelt? How did he feel about Princess Elizabeth's marriage to Prince Philip?

Hitherto unpublished letters from his diaries, from the Roosevelt memoirs, and other sources, give us a new insight into the character of the man who made the British Monarchy the object of envy and admiration around the world.

The first of five parts of this fascinating story begins this week in the Star Weekly. Also read:—

Canada's Northern Friend

ALASKA, WHICH BECAME the forty-ninth state of the Union a few days ago, will probably take more interest than any other state in the affairs of Canada. Like Canada, it is part of the north, it fronts on Canadian territory, it needs Canada's co-operation to solve many of its problems.

In Washington it is expected that the representatives of Alaska in the Congress will soon propose a bold northern policy involving one of Canada's great natural assets, the Yukon River.

When the United States won the Alaska boundary dispute, with the help of the British arbitrator, it secured the Panhandle and shut northern Canada off from the Pacific. But the Panhandle barred Alaska from the headwaters of the northward-flowing Yukon, one of the largest potential sources of electricity in the world.

A few years ago American interests tried to divert the Yukon directly west to the sea by tunnel and found a huge aluminum industry on the coast but the St. Laurent Government rejected this scheme. It was opposed on principle to the alienation of any Canadian electricity.

Now that it has all the powers of a state, Alaska is taking a second look at the Yukon and wondering whether the old boundary award is really as satisfactory as it once appeared.

Alaska needs Yukon power if it is to develop large coastal industries and some of its leading men think they know how to get it. If Canada were given a corridor through the Panhandle and a port on the sea, they think, the diversion of the Yukon might be approved in Ottawa.

The American aluminum interests, having spent millions to survey the Yukon, were favorable to a Canadian corridor but believed that the Congress would never grant it. That situation may have been changed in Washington by Alaska's new statehood. If the Alaskans in the Congress are favorable to the scheme it may become practical politics and face Canada with a vital decision.

What would a corridor and a northern seaport setting the Yukon be worth to Canada? Would it be worth the alienation of Yukon power?

In this old issue the Canadian Government's thinking has evidently changed a great deal in recent years. Originally it was opposed to any export of Columbia power but seems ready to permit it now, for a fixed term of years, simply because all that potential power cannot be used in British Columbia immediately. Would the same reasoning apply to the Yukon if Canada could break at last through the barrier of the Panhandle?

If such a deal—unprecedented in American history—is actually proposed to Canada it will have to be examined with care. For we are dealing here with a huge national asset which, though unused at present, may be of incalculable value later on.

One aspect of Canadian policy is, or should be, inflexible: If the Yukon is to be harnessed by international agreement Canada must be guaranteed a full share of the resulting power, to be used east of the Panhandle and on the coast. Canada must be able to secure, when it is needed, years hence, far more power than Canadian industries use today.

But there is no use talking of these things until we know for sure whether the United States is willing to talk business about a Panhandle corridor and port. And that will depend mainly on the government and legislature of the newly-created Alaskan state.

City Blueprint for 1959

MAYOR PERCY SCURRAH, in his inaugural address, has presented a generalized blueprint for Victoria's administration and development in 1959.

If it lacks spectacular features, it balances that lack with sound common sense and it furnishes an encouraging picture of a city in good economic health.

This, it appears, will be a year in which services will be strengthened, projects approved in 1958 carried through and continued progress made toward reduction of outstanding debt.

That gross debt dropped on a per capita basis from $202.88 in 1957 to $193.87 last year and, with provision made in the debt retirement fund, is reduced to $126.39 net as the year begins.

Since the sale of city-owned property has financed capital development for the last 10 years and because new projects, specifically the View Street mall and parking facilities will be cared for out of parking revenue, the financial outlook for Victoria is satisfactory.

This does not mean that Victoria faces no financial problems. It does, however, indicate that the city is in a relatively comfortable position to face them—far more comfortable than some of its neighbors.

The mayor's inaugural address is no boomer's forecast of tremendous development in 1959. It is, on the other hand, a workmanlike outline of the tasks ahead of Victoria this year and a reasonable indication of the manner in which they will be accomplished.

In that accomplishment the city will benefit from an expanded tax basis, the product of civic growth and the same policy of placing as much property as possible on the tax rolls. To further extend that base, the mayor wisely advocates services for certain properties that might still be placed on the market as home sites.

Victoria's New Freeman

FOR THE FOURTH TIME SINCE it created the honorary position 32 years ago, the City Council has named a Freeman of the City of Victoria.

In choosing His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for that distinction the council has shown clear appreciation for the excellent service Mr. Ross has performed. That service has gone far beyond the normal demands of his office.

It is entirely fitting that he should be so honored. Victorians in general recognize the gracious and kindly manner in which he has maintained the dignity of his position and imbued it with a warm friendliness in the finest tradition of his popular predecessors.

Mayor Scurrah is to be congratulated for conceiving this gesture, and his Council for approving it unanimously.

The Heretics Are Forgiven

EARLY IN 1958 MESSRS. LUNG Yun, Huang Shao-hung, Chen Ming-shu and Li Chun-lung, high officials of the Chinese Government, were dismissed. They had been found guilty of the high crime of publicly criticizing the Government of Russia.

On December 2 last these officials were restored to their old positions, though they had never recanted their dangerous heresies. This item of news from Peiping no doubt was read with interest in Moscow where it must have appeared as a deliberate affront to the Russian Government.

It was, in fact, only the latest superficial evidence of inner strains between the great Communist partners.

A few years ago the Peiping press was never tired of thanking Moscow for its unselfish and boundless help to China's economic revolution. These tributes are heard no more.

Clearly the Chinese Government is not getting the sort of business deal it expected from Russia. Trade between the two countries is now heavily balanced in Russia's favor.

Moreover, the four re-established heretics have complained that Russia insists on repayment of its loans to China whereas the United States has canceled various wartime loans to its allies.

They also complain that Russia looted Manchuria of industrial machinery at the end of the war and never paid for it.

Yet these critics of Russian policy are now forgiven and returned to high positions at Peiping. Mr. Khrushchev will read between the lines of this announcement.

"Once it got past the moon... suddenly it all seemed too much for him... hasn't budged for three days..."

WHAT WERE WE DOING

We Took Our Own Sweet Time

By B. A. TOBIN

THE EXPERTS have been looking over the accomplishments of the now-completed Geophysical Year and they have come up with some startling new information about the globe on which we live.

Of course it will be many months, perhaps years, before the full results of the work can be assessed. Some of the computations and analyses will take that long. But even the simple facts have been enough to open the eyes of the scientists. A great deal about the planet has been learned during the past few months. It seems pretty thrilling until you think of how long man has been inhabiting the earth.

First there were all those millions of years when he was just poking around on the ground or swinging in the trees. Then some bright May I came the move into caves. And it was still a long, long time before he got into historical times so that he began leaving us a few notes on rocks and clay tablets here and there.

New Knowledge

Of course man was learning about the planet all the time, but very slowly. He learned where there was a good patch of edible roots or berries in the next valley; and he learned that a sabre-toothed tiger lived near the peak of that hill and it was a good place to stay away from; and he learned a short-cut through the mountain pass that led to a lake where fish could be caught. But over a long period of time he didn't amass much more information than that.

Money and Inflation

In Wednesday's "Times" Mr. Ralph Baker, general manager of James Richardson and Sons, is reported as saying that measures to curb inflation "could seriously retard the whole economic progress of the country."

As Mr. Baker points out, in 1958 money incomes and prices tended to move together and in harmony with the gradual change from recession to recovery conditions. But Mr. Baker did not refer to the grave danger of runaway inflation nor to the fact that many persons on fixed or small incomes have suffered from this inflation.

It is impossible to have your cake and eat it too, but we can have the benefits of inflation without the evils.

In the 1958 edition of Silvio Gesell's "The Natural Economic Order," the translator, Philip Pye, M.A., writes in an appendix "Theoretically the principle of Free-Money could be applied by a continuous regular inflation of prices of 5 per cent annually, with, to protect creditors, a corresponding modification of all long-term money contracts. For 18 years the continuous irregular inflation, without modification of money contracts, practised by almost all countries, has realized one aim of Free-Money, the elimination of depressions and unemployment—but at the expense of creditors and with many grave economic disturbances."

The principles of demurrage money can be easily applied to our own currency and bank credit, and then, although the money supply of the country would depreciate, the national monetary unit, i.e., "the dollar" would remain stable and we would have all the benefits of inflation without its evils.

If we wish to have a system of free economy and a return to individual initiative and personal responsibility we must act now. As J. M. Keynes wrote "I believe that the future will learn more from the spirit of Gesell than from that of Marx."

What Are We Paying for?

Re the reported cost of moving some seven houses from the new firehall site to their new location at a cost of some $81,000 to $96,000.

If this is correct then I as a taxpayer say it is outrageous—an average cost of $12,000 per house. For that amount one can supply a lot and build a first class home even at today's prices.

What is the matter with our city

In fact, it wasn't until the last 100 years—the merest dot on the end of mankind's long line of existence—that he speeded up things and started to master the globe. There were valuable spurts before then, of course.

The Egyptian and Greek mathematicians, the outstanding geniuses like Leonardo da Vinci or Galileo who popped up at various times throughout history all contributed gems of knowledge to our precious store—and usually suffered abuse and rejection by their contemporaries for their pains.

Only recently have we made real headway in penetrating the secrets of nature. What were we doing all those other countless thousands of years?

The struggle for survival took up a great deal of our time. When it wasn't against nature it was in artificial conflicts against each other. Where a better knowledge of nature helped us in our struggles, that knowledge was usually attained. But progress was slow and fumbling.

Tools Needed

It was not until technical skill reached a fairly high level that we began to get ahead. The Greek philosophers could guess at the nature of the world, the planetary system and the universe. But they had only their unassisted insight to aid them and it was easier to postulate theories out of one's imagination than to ferret out the facts that could be built into a system of belief.

The invention of the magnifying glass, which could be used in telescopes and in microscopes, gave us a big lift forward. It sharpened our eyes for the very small and the very large. Later came other apparatus of increasing complexity—the world of chemistry and physics expanded year by year until suddenly the marvels of electronics were opened to us.

These marvels became at once a field of study in themselves and a means of entering other fields. The detection and analysis of waves became a major branch of science—the wave forms of heat, of radio waves, X-rays, cosmic rays and a host of other phenomena became the key to many more of nature's secrets. Yet a few years ago they were not even known.

Slow Start

The scientific activity of the last few years has made up in some measure for the eons in which nothing was done. Man has been something like a child locked in a candy shop.

For weeks the child merely sits and looks around, little interested in the nature of his environment. Then one day he happens to open one of the many jars around him. He finds it contains something attractive and returns again and again to the jar.

After another long time he develops the idea that the other jars may contain something nice too. After that, he's away to the races—something as the nineteenth-century scientists got a few jars open and found the key to many more.

Today we're knocking the tops off the jars in all directions. We're surrounded by candy, a lot of which is being wasted. And we're gobbling so fast that we may well become sick. Some of the jars, we're beginning to find out, contain poisons instead of candy.

But we must go on, we can't turn back. And all that we learn serves only as a signpost to other still unsolved mysteries.

Manager and Engineer

manager and engineer and all the rest of our City Hall experts? What are we paying them for? Why were not these houses rather turned over to some building contractors or wreckers in the first place?

I am sure there are other ratepayers along with myself who would like to have these questions answered. What we need in the city of Victoria is a good active ratepayers association to check up on some of the expenditures.

W. R. WALTERS,

Spare That Tree

It is no use to plant the trees in Victoria if we can't afford to take care and train them properly. This morning, Dec. 30, tree removers had got down Linden Avenue as far as Oxford Street. The lovely shade trees had gone, leaving previously planted tiny trees visible.

Shade trees on Moss Street had been removed a year ago leaving this street naked also. I note tiny trees between big ones on St. Andrews Street (where Emily Carr and her sister lived) so suppose these big ones are to be removed in a year or so.

Up until 1940, boulevard trees were pruned into shape every February. The big chestnuts on Cook Street were kept below the electric wires by the year's growth of twigs being cut regularly. Since 1940 the trees were left to thicken into branches and finally they actually cut the centre branches out; right down to the main trunk.

No doubt the valuable English Hawthorne trees, deep pink in a gorgeous massed sight on May Street every spring will be cut down in a few years unless gardeners and not woodsmen take charge of them.

Even the seven-year-planted double pink cherry trees on McKenzie Avenue, off Cook Street, are growing straight up like poplar trees for want of systematic pruning (not of trunks but twigs) every year. The only remedy now to save mishapen valuable trees, such as the Cook Street chestnuts, would be to have them re-shaped below level of the wires under proper gardener supervision.

"WAIT A SEC! I WANT SOMETHIN' BACK!"

Soviet 'Legality'

By VICTOR ZORZA

THE SUPREME SOVIET has passed a new criminal code which embodies for legislative form a number of the legal guarantees that have guided Soviet courts since the death of Stalin, and has confirmed the appointment of a successor to General Serov, who was recently relieved from the post of chief of the Security Service.

The new head of the Committee of State Security is Mr. Alexander Sholepin, a party official, who has apparently been groomed for this post since April, when he was transferred to other duties from his post of leader of the Communist Youth Organization.

As a seasoned party official who has had much to do with the "thought control" of the Komsomol's 20,000,000 members, Mr. Sholepin fulfils two of the most important requirements for the chief of Mr. Khrushchev's political police. He knows what party discipline means, and he can be more subtle in tracking down and eradicating dangerous thoughts than a professional policeman.

Taken Seriously

Whether the new criminal code will make his work more difficult by restricting the freedom of action of his underlings remains to be seen, but the summaries broadcast by Moscow Radio so far suggest that "Socialist legality" is to be taken very seriously in future.

Indeed, it could be argued that the new code provides most of the legal safeguards expected by the citizens of the modern democratic state, just as it is argued on behalf of the Soviet constitution that it is the most "democratic" in the world.

As has happened with so many puddings in the past few days, the proof of Mr. Khrushchev's words will be in their eating.

The repeated references in the Supreme Soviet and central committee meeting to the transgressions of the members of the "anti-party group" confirm the impression that pressure is being put on them to confess, in the same way as Marshal Bulganin did, and it is possible that if they refuse to do so before the party, they will be made to do so before a court.

There is nothing in the summaries of the new laws available so far to show that the importance of confessions in court proceedings is to be reduced, though in an earlier phase of the campaign for "Socialist legality" much was made of the undesirability of relying on confessions.

Many other points made during the discussion in the Soviet legal journals on the strengthening of legality are not reflected in the new laws.

Left Vague

Thus although the participation of defence counsel in criminal proceedings is guaranteed, the stage at which he is admitted to such proceedings does not appear to have been defined. In the past there were cases of defence counsel not being called in until a day or two before the trial.

During the earlier discussion, some Soviet lawyers appear to have favored the introduction of the principle that the accused is presumed innocent until proved guilty.

This has not been accepted by the government, and during the Supreme Soviet debate one of the speakers urged the rejection of the "bourgeois and lifeless system of the presumption of innocence."

There is some improvement, however, in that the burden of proof of guilt is now firmly placed on the state prosecutor, whereas previously it often happened that the accused was not guilty of the crimes alleged against him.

To regard all these apparent innovations with so questioning an eye is not to deny their possible importance, but merely to recall that the "legality" of the Soviet legal system is still as much a fiction as Soviet "democracy."

Police Trials Out?

It is now stated, for instance, that the court is the only state organ which has the right to find citizens guilty of criminal offences, and to punish them. In so far as this excludes the possibility of "trials" by the security police, which were widely practised under Stalin, it is an improvement.

At the same time it is provided that the judges are accountable only to the law, an admirable principle, and that they are to be elected, but may not all the preceding "guarantees" be made worthless by the Soviet system of elections?

It is further stated that the application of the death penalty is being restricted, but the list of crimes to which it is applicable shows that it is being "restricted" only in the sense that it is not being extended. It is now to be applied, as it has been up till now, in the case of such crimes as high treason, espionage, subversive and terrorist acts, premeditated murder, and banditry.

High treason punishable by death consists not only in betrayal of state secrets and flight abroad, but also in refusal to return from abroad and in conspiring for the purpose of seizing power, as Mr. Malenkov and Mr. Molotov may soon find out.

Maximum Terms

The maximum term of imprisonment is to be 15 years, in place of 25, because, it is said, long terms of imprisonment have not justified themselves. The age at which children and young people can be held criminally responsible, which has been 12 to 14 years up till now, is to be raised to 16, and in exceptional cases to 14 years.

"Sentencing by analogy" is abolished, and with it a system under which, if a crime was not specified in the penal code, the judge found the crime nearest to that alleged and applied the penalties laid down for it. The former revision of the crime of treason into two categories, intentional and unintentional, is abolished, and the new code specifies that treason must be premeditated.

Canada and Big Brother

NEW YORK—Did Canada knuckle under to the United States during 1958? What are the prospects for this coming year?

I've just finished interviewing a cross-section of diplomats and senior correspondents at the UN and the majority expressed the view that Canada showed considerably less willingness during the year to oppose the views of the United States. One suggested explanation is that Canada, for the first time, faces defence costs which she can not meet and thus she faces the prospect of going on the American dole. It's also pointed-out that Mr. Diefenbaker and his senior ministers are now on a first-name basis with their opposite numbers in Washington and it's emphasized that personal friendships often exert strong influences in international affairs.

It's generally agreed that Canada has an unusual opportunity to formulate independent policies if she chooses, especially since the past year showed continued crumbling of power positions in the cold war and among neutral nations. To some extent power vacuums are being created giving greater influence to the middle powers, greater opportunity to Canada.

Burke

Here's the way-one of the senior European correspondents summed it up the other day: "Canada has achieved great influence. The United States has lost influence. The result is that the United States would find it very difficult to move without Canadian support. This gives you the opportunity to put very great pressure on the United States to modify her policies, to bring them into line with reality."

In the past year Canada did, in fact, exercise a quiet moderating influence on American policy. At the time of the Middle East crisis when American troops hit the beaches in Lebanon, Canada's external affairs minister flew to Washington to urge that there be no further extension of military operations. At the time of the Quemoy-Matsu shelling, Prime Minister Diefenbaker made it clear that Canada assumed no military responsibilities in the area. In the China debate at the UN, External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith pointed out that Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists must also bear part of the blame.

Canada also played a moderating role over Berlin, the third major crisis of the year. A senior Canadian external affairs official said Canada was to a considerable extent responsible for the moderate wording of the recent communique issued by the NATO foreign ministers over Berlin.

"We managed to get some of the atom-rattling phrases softened," said the official.

This may not sound significant to the layman but the official said he regarded this as perhaps the most significant accomplishment of Canada in external affairs in 1958.

In a touchy world, Canada has exercised a useful influence in the past year. But could she have done more? "I think it's correct to say that most people at the UN believe Canada could have done considerably more, that instead of exercising only a negative restraining role she could have adopted more positive policies."

I asked a number of diplomats and senior correspondents what one single action they thought Canada could most usefully have taken last year.

The majority felt that it would have been a positive statement on China. Instead Canada chose to support the American position that admission of China should not be considered, a position which the majority of members regard as unwise, which many Asians regard as almost suicidal folly.

It should be pointed out that the vote this year, as in previous years, was not over actual admission of China but as to whether or not the matter should even be considered. Asian speakers kept asking why, if the American arguments against admission were so good, why weren't they willing to allow them to be tested by vote? No Western speaker had an answer.

In the vote, the Scandinavian countries and Ireland abstained and were given considerable credit for taking an independent position. Canada supported the U.S.

It's argued, in support of Canada's vote, that the damage caused by opposing the United States would be greater than the benefits, that isolationist forces would be encouraged, and the Western alliance weakened. This argument does not, I must add, receive much support at the UN. Furthermore this line of reasoning weakens Canada's reputation for independent thinking and acting.

Many people at the UN hope that Canada will take a stronger position in the coming year.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

The Amateur-Pro Farce

LONDON—This matter of Peter May and Judy Grinham underlines in red ink just what a farce this amateur-pro distinction in sport has become.

Here we have Britain's Olympic swimming star Judy having screen tests in hopes of becoming a movie personality and the powers-that-be of swimming going into a great old tizzy about possible loss of amateur status and deciding that perhaps if her films don't have anything to do with swimming she can maybe remain an amateur.

And on the other hand, England's cricket captain Peter May out in Australia accepting a £400 cash prize for doing a hot bit of batting, announcing he has formed a company called Peter May Limited to handle all the money he makes from cricket—and remaining an amateur!

What makes this amateur status business such nonsense is not so much that in this commercial age the line drawn between amateur and professional has become very fuzzy indeed. It's the fact every sport seems to have its own special code of amateurism.

Take just for example two major "individual" games and two team sports.

Tennis and golf:

In tennis (where payment to amateurs is made in the form of expenses graduated according to how big they are as crowd-pullers) those amateurs mustn't play in professional tournaments.

In golf, amateurs may play among themselves or among professionals without loss of status.

Soccer and rugby football:

Soccer amateurs can play for the big professional clubs like Arsenal and Chelsea, turn out with professionals for the England team and still play for England's Amateur XI against the world's other amateur teams.

A rugby amateur need make only one appearance for a minor professional club and he is barred for life from playing for England's Rugby team.

Inconsistencies such as this between one sport and another can be multiplied by the dozens. And it becomes really chaotic when you get a player good at several sports violating what are hard-and-fast amateur rules in one game when he switches to another.

In England there are countless examples of this. Most frequent: a player hobnobbing with professional cricketers all summer long and then in the winter being chosen to play for the supposedly pure amateur England Rugby team.

To clear it all up there seem to be only two things to be done.

One would be to have a World Congress of Sport where it would be laid down exactly what constitutes an amateur for all sports—which is never likely to be done.

Or, far more realistic, scrap the amateur-pro distinction altogether and have everything "open."

More Potted Bulbs Taken Indoors Now

In early December the first pots of daffodils were brought indoors. The flower stems on these are now six inches high, and in two more weeks at 60 degrees F the flowers should be opening.

This week a few more pots, possibly of a later flowering variety, will be lifted from the place where they were buried for rooting, and gradually accustomed to the forcing temperature.

At the same time there will be some pots of tulips ready for indoor conditions. These receive a different treatment from the daffodils, which needed good light to encourage blooming.

Tulips for indoor flowering are kept in the dark until the blossoms are almost ready to open. The pots are completely covered, either by inverting another pot over them or by placing them under a greenhouse bench from which sack- ing is hung to exclude all light.

No sight is more strange to the beginner than the greenish-white leaves, stems and flower buds of tulips which are being forced indoors.

This ghostly appearance does not remain for more than two days; once the plants are sufficiently advanced to stand daylight. The normal green of leaf and stem and the first coloring of the buds develop at an amazing speed.

Plenty of water is essential for both daffs and tulips during the growing period, and both soil flower bulbs and last longer if the pots are removed to a 45-50 degree temperature as the flowers open.

U.S.-Canada Trade Experts To Meet Often

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States have agreed to closer consultation on issues that could hurt each other's trade and at the same time have called on Europe to speed up reduction of curbs against North American goods.

Eight high-ranking cabinet ministers and their deputies, completing two days of talks in an atmosphere described by a Canadian as of the "utmost harmony", Tuesday, announced that:

1. Wheat experts of the two countries will be brought together every three months in attempts to resolve Canadian complaints over the impact of American wheat giveaways on Canada's commercial markets.
2. More bilateral consultations will take place on oil. Finance Minister Fleming, who headed the talks, said that "only time will tell" whether this will lead to elimination of American curbs against Canadian oil. There was joint agreement that continued oil exploration and development are necessary "on defence grounds", a point brought home by Canada.
3. The United States expressed the hope it could withdraw its import curbs on lead and zinc once some international agreement is reached among major suppliers and buyers. The curbs were imposed last September. An international study now is under way.
4. Cabinet spokesmen, probably Justice Minister Fulton and United States Attorney General Rogers, will hold talks on United States prosecution of three big electronics companies whose subsidiaries operate a patents pool in Canada. Canada would like to see the lawsuit dropped. The United States said it has no intention of infringing on Canadian sovereignty.
5. Canada agreed to consult with the U.S. before it applied its tough new anti-dumping laws which the Americans claim violate Canada's international trade obligations. Canada gave assurances it does not intend to use the legislation in "either a discriminatory or an arbitrary manner."
6. Canada also would consult on the impact of recent Canadian food import curbs, particularly turkeys and frozen peas. Most of the curbs are linked with federal price support programs. Both sides agreed that incentives which increase surpluses should be avoided.
7. Canadian study would be given to an American proposal to set up an international development association affiliated with the World Bank. Purpose of this association would be to provide underdeveloped countries with long-term loans on more generous terms than available through the World Bank.

Both Keeping An Eye on Europe

While the two countries took these steps to strengthen their trading relationship, they also kept an eye on European developments, concluding that recent European currency convertibility moves should make things a little better for North American exporters.

While it seemed that Canada and the U.S. had a fairly close view on the European situation, there seemed to be rather nebulous views on the Communist trade front.

Canada joined with other Commonwealth countries last September in expressing the hope that the Communist bloc would be prepared to enter into world trade pacts designed to stabilize markets and prices for particular products. Since the U.S. is a major buyer and seller, such pacts would be ineffective without American participation.

The communique suggested the step-up in world trade by the Reds made it the more necessary to stimulate trade in the free world. There was no suggestion of East and West getting together.

While the communique spoke of a spirit of friendliness prevailing between the two countries, the final session of the two-day talks was prolonged three hours beyond the scheduled deadline, ending at 7:25 p.m. EST. Canadian sources said the Americans took issue with the draft communique, demanding many changes.

Mr. Fleming emphasized that while there were a lot of problems between the two countries, there was no bickering. The talks were conducted in an atmosphere of "utmost harmony."

This was the fourth meeting of the joint Canada-U.S. trade and economic committee set up in 1953 to iron out problems between the two countries before they developed into embarrassing public situations. Previous sessions have not had spectacular success.

PACIFISTS ON HUNGER STRIKE

SWAFFHAM, England (AP) — Two pacifists—jailed for invading a base for U.S. rockets—went on a hunger strike Tuesday.

They were among a group of demonstrators who staged a protest march at a new missile site near here before Christmas. They were given 14-day sentences on charges of obstructing the law after clashing with police.

Warrants have been issued for 11 more men and eight women who took part in the demonstrations. They refused to sign a pledge that they would not repeat the performance.

Victoria's Jobless Ready To Join Protest 'March'

A large division of Victoria's army of the unemployed is ready to join a proposed mass motorcade "march" by out-of-work Vancouver Island men to the Legislative Buildings later this month.

Some 5,000 men, including "several hundred" from Victoria, would take part in the march.

The plan—still in the tentative stage—was proposed by delegates to a three-hour union meeting in Nanaimo Sunday. The men would start out by car from Comox or the Alberni, picking up cars from all union locals on the way south to Victoria.

They would park outside the city and approach the Buildings on foot.

The demonstration—to drive home to the B.C. government the urgency of tackling the unemployment problem in the province—won the support of Victoria's Labor Council's unemployment committee at a Tuesday meeting.

"TIME IS RIFE"

Committee chairman Donald Douglas said, "We are 100 per cent behind this march, and we trust the full (labor) council will support it."

"The time is ripe for some demonstration of this sort. Briefs are apparently ineffective. And many Victorians are not aware of the seriousness of the unemployment situation here."

Shipyard union business agent Ernest Orchin, reporting that 18 members were laid off locally this week, said his local was one of several that had thrown their weight behind the march plan.

The plan will be framed by a correlating body set up by Nanaimo and District Labor Council.

Electric Rates Big Issue at Forum

The question of why Victoria and Vancouver consumers should pay electrical rates far in excess of other large Canadian cities while the province contains an enormous potential of cheap power, went unanswered during a political forum Monday night.

It was posed by Liberal leader Arthur Laing during a four-party debate over Vancouver CBC television. But in the quarter hour at their disposal, the speakers, except for Mr. Laing's question, didn't get past the problem of which should come first—the Peace or the Columbia development.

Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson, CCF leader Robert Strachan and Mr. Laing joined in urging the present government to forget the Wenner-Gren interests and develop the Columbia now.

But Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, who acted as host because it was a Social Credit free-time broadcast, said the Peace was the only river ready for power development. It must go ahead to avoid power shortages "or we won't have enough in the mid-60s."

NO OFFER

It would be three years before the Fraser development could proceed, he said, and the Columbia is still held up with bargaining with the U.S. on downstream benefits. He denied suggestions there had been any formal offer of federal assistance in development of the Columbia.

The minister pointed out that between 1955 and 1957 the province, according to the Gordon Commission, will require "four to five times the electrical energy we are now consuming."

The estimate was based on a doubled population with an electrical consumption 28 times as great as at present. The most critical time for the lower mainland would be 1962, said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Finlayson said there should be an overall power development plan covering the next 50 years. The present government "should plan it through Canadian ownership, management and control, he added.

"The government should take advantage of the federal offer to assist in the development of the Columbia," then use the present distributors.

NO CUSTOMERS

"We can't understand why the government has superimposed the Wenner-Gren interests" into the picture, "when they have no customers and don't appear to have much capital." He added, his party feels the best thing the present government could do would be to buy out Wenner-Gren.

CCF, Robert Strachan said existing and known damsites can care for all B.C. power needs of the foreseeable future. The main consideration should be to carry out development at the lowest possible cost. He pointed to a recently granted 12 per cent rate increase to the B.C. Electric.

"We of the CCF have always advocated public development of resources" and he felt cheap sources should be developed first—indicating the development of the Columbia "under an overall direction."

BIG POTENTIAL

Liberal leader Laing criticized the fact B.C. has an enormous potential of cheap water power — "probably 30,000,000 horsepower in all" but has developed very little of it, and at rates "the highest on the continent."

"The residential consumer of Vancouver and Victoria pays over $9.25 for the same service that sells for $3.25 in Calgary, $1.30 in Edmonton, $6.65 in Regina, $4.11 in Toronto, $4.40 in Winnipeg and $2.73 in Ottawa." In Washington the price is $3.70 and the Bonneville Authority sells bulk power to industry at $17.50 per horsepower per year, while on the Fraser some mills pay as high as $100 per h.p. per year.

Curb on Credit Urged by Banker

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The head of Canada's largest bank said today Canada seems to have reached the economists' "hell on earth—inflation and unemployment."

The alternately "creeping" credit expands in booms, contracts in recessions.

Unholy Alliance
"To break up this unholy alliance of inflation and unemployment,"

Mr. Muir repeatedly urged that monetary and credit-control should embrace a wider area of our financial world than they now do.

It is necessary only to look back at the last year and a half, Mr. Muir said, to realize that Canada, like the United States, is not making full use of her natural and human resources.

The most spectacular evidence of this, he said, is the level of unemployment, "but it also appears in the fall in industrial production and in the existence of excess plant capacity."

This is by no means a recession in the classical mould, he said.

"The gross value of our national production... has scarcely faltered in its gradual rise since the beginning of the recession in early 1947; the cost of living, which did not flatten out until May, 1948, resumed its upward march in August to set a new record in the last quarter of the year and in spite of the upturn in business activity, unemployment continued."

Instead of price cuts which could have paved the way to a healthy recovery, easy credit-consumer policy was continued, he said.

"Regardless of the skill and energy of the monetary authorities, an effective monetary policy is impossible so long as consumer credit is free to move in the opposite direction (away from inflation)."

"Unregulated consumer credit expands in booms, contracts in recessions."

Mr. Muir attributed the "giddy season" enjoyed by the stock market on the "apparently legitimate expectation that nothing effective will be done on this continent to arrest the steady decline of the once almighty dollar."

"As recovery continues and inflationary pressure grows, the government will have to face either the difficult and unpopular task of increasing taxes," he said.

"The second alternative will prove even more distasteful to the government in view of its official and sound pronouncements in favor of long-run fiscal reform and a general decrease in the tax burden."

Mr. Muir said he felt fiscal experts could devise a more flexible tax system which would adjust tax rates to counter cyclical disturbances, quickly and effectively, but without arbitrarily changing the relative importance of the government sector in Canada's economic life.

Church Sells Stock Shares For $3 Million

LONDON (Reuters) — The Church of England today disclosed it sold all its shares of British Aluminium Monday to Reynolds Metals of the United States.

They were sold during a struggle on the London Stock Exchange between Reynolds and the Aluminium Company of America (ALCA) for control of Britain's major aluminium company.

Reynolds appeared Tuesday to have won the battle in the biggest spending spree ever seen on the London Stock Exchange. Observers estimated Reynolds sank $50,000,000 in cash into the skyrocketing market.

Reynolds is associated with the $100,000,000 ($280,000,000) British firm Tube Investments. It will still take several days to confirm whether this group now has full control of British Aluminium.

The Church of England commissioners held about 260,000 shares of the company. At the high prices Reynolds paid for the stock Monday, the church must have realized about £1,100,000 (more than $3,000,000).

BIGGEST HOLDER

This is twice as much as the church's shares were worth last spring before the furious bidding began. At that time, the church was the second biggest holder of British Aluminium stock.

But the 260,000 shares represented less than one per cent of the church's total investments, which are worth more than £220,000,000 ($600,000,000).

NEW YORK (AP) — Reynolds Metals Company has tentatively scheduled a special meeting of stockholders Feb. 2 to vote on two proposed issues of common and preferred stock.

Wall Street sources sought to link the move to the bid of Reynolds Metal Company and Tube Investments Limited to gain control of British Aluminium Company, Britain's largest aluminium producer.

Reynolds management declined comment.

Holders of Reynolds Metals will be asked to authorize issuance of an additional 2,500,000 shares of common stock and 1,000,000 shares of a new, second preferred, $100 par stock.

312 U.S. Papers Hiked Circulation Rates Last Year

NEW YORK (CP) — A considerable number of United States newspapers in the United States increased circulation prices in 1958, a survey by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association shows.

Some of the details are given by general manager Cranston Williams, who said the ANPA survey, not yet completed, shows that up to now 312 daily newspapers in 45 states and the District of Columbia increased circulation prices in 1958. The various increases covered single copy prices, home deliveries, mail subscriptions and wholesale rates.

CAMPBELL SAYS Need New Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Hockey League, in a move aimed at discouraging farcical player transactions, Tuesday took the first step toward increasing the waiver price from $15,000 to $25,000.

Clarence Campbell, the league president, met with the six NHL club owners Tuesday in New York to discuss what he termed "our biggest problem of the moment."

Campbell said an increase in the waiver price was the only solution to the problem. It is expected it will be increased from the present $15,000 to $25,000.

The recent "Hergesheimer deal" caused the owners to seek a change in the rule.

RANGER AGAIN

Hergesheimer, a veteran winger, went to Montreal from New York for the waiver price. Then, a week later, he was re-acquired by the Rangers when Montreal tried to send him to Rochester of the American Hockey League. New York then sent him to their Buffalo farm club in the AHL.

"Montreal was willing to spend $15,000 to get Hergesheimer for their Rochester farm club," Campbell said. "But if the waiver price had been $25,000 they probably wouldn't have touched him."

TWO CHANGES

Campbell also proposed two other changes in the rule:

A player claimed on waivers would have to remain with the club for 30 days and a player claimed on waivers would have to be placed on the team's protective list.

Each club is allowed to protect only 15 players from the draft.

REGAN CLAIMED

Meanwhile, Toronto has claimed Larry Regan, one of four players placed on waivers earlier this week by Boston.

Boston has called up Larry Leach from Providence and Gordie Redahl from Rochester to bolster the club, which as well as dropping Regan, Norm Johnson, Real Chevrefils and Earl Reibel, has been hit by injuries to Flem Mackell, Bob Armstrong, Fern Flaman and Guy Gendron.

This Is What 'Bush League' Really Means

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—It was real "bush league" here Tuesday night.

Cuban league baseball officials admitted all fans wearing beards free into Gran Stadium as the shout of "play ball" was heard in Havana for the first time since the revolution.

The stands were filled with bewildered rebel guerrilla fans, most of whom hadn't seen a baseball game in two years. They saw Mariano defeat the Cienfuegos, 5-1, as Al Cicotte, property of the Cleveland Indians, scattered nine hits for his 10th victory. Pedro Ramos, a Cuban native, was the loser.

Twelve Straight For Wilf Greaves

DETROIT (AP)—Wilf Greaves, Canadian middleweight champion, won his 12th straight fight Tuesday night, stopping Otis Woodward, of New York, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

The Edmonton-born fighter dropped Woodward for a count of eight in the seventh round.

Greaves was well ahead on points when the bout was called.

BOYD FAVORED

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Boyd, trying to regain the form that made him the No. 1 middleweight contender in 1956, is a 7-5 choice tonight against veteran Holly Mills for their televised 10-rounder from Chicago Stadium.

YANKS MISSING

LONDON (AP)—Oxford University rowing team, which has been training in the 105th rowing of the boat race against Cambridge but its stars.

Late last year Rubin led a revolt against the official Oxford rowing methods after Cambridge won the 1958 race.

Later the rebels disbanded and most of them rejoined the official camp. But Rubin showed no desire to compete for an Oxford crew using the methods he had criticized.

Grimes supported Rubin.

LITTLE MAN IN BIG PADS

Appearing almost lost in goaltending equipment, little Emile Francis turns aside shot in Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena Tuesday night. Spokane goalie gave Victoria Cougars plenty of trouble before yielding disputed overtime goal that gave Cougars 4-3 win over Spokes.

THIRD-ROUND MATCHES SATURDAY

Goliath Extended Wishes, But Were They For David?

By ROGER STONEHOUSE
LONDON (CP)—Included in the mail for Tooting and Mitcham, the south London amateur soccer club, was a card from the lofty Nottingham Forest team.

The chairman, committee and officials of the First Division club wished to extend "greetings and good wishes for Christmas and the coming year."

Nottingham Forest probably was buying a little luck. The professionals are drawn against tooting on Saturday in the third round of the Football Association Cup. It is David vs. Goliath all over again, and the position is never a comfortable one for Goliath.

Three non-league giant-killers—Tooting, Peterborough United and Worcester City—are left with 61 Football League teams. The odds are heavily stacked against the non-leaguers. While they may stand little chance of reaching the Cup Final at Wembley next May, they will pick up some much-needed cash and a little glory.

Tooting entertains Nottingham at the small Sandy Lane ground, with a crowd of 17,000 expected. It should yield Tooting about £1,500 in gate receipts. The amateurs defeated two league sides, Bournemouth and Northampton Town, in earlier matches and are employing the coaching help of Brian Hewson, Olympic mile runner, to speed up the players.

Also playing in London is Peterborough United, a provincial professional club which has been trying to gain Football League status for the last 18 seasons.

HOPE FOR ENTRY

United visits Craven Cottage to meet Second Division Fulham and a win for the Northamptonshire team would enhance its case for league membership. The financial return is not so important for Peterborough, rated the wealthiest non-league club and possessor of a fine, modern stadium.

Worcester City is another professional club which plays in a regional circuit. The 5-2 conquerors of Millwall in the previous round play host to Second Division Liverpool and a record 16,000 crowd is expected to yield £1,500 to the home club.

Young German Chess Champion

HASTINGS, England (AP)—Wolfgang Uhlmann, 23-year-old champion of East Germany, won the Hastings international chess congress premier section today.

In the quickest game of the congress—it lasted an hour—he played for a master's draw in his ninth and final round game against Geza Fuster of Toronto, the former Hungarian master. Uhlmann achieved the draw in 16 moves.

Uhlmann won seven games and drew two for eight points. No other player can equal that total.

A dispute over rowing techniques and training lies behind the absence of the former Yale stars.

Late last year Rubin led a revolt against the official Oxford rowing methods after Cambridge won the 1958 race.

Later the rebels disbanded and most of them rejoined the official camp. But Rubin showed no desire to compete for an Oxford crew using the methods he had criticized.

Grimes supported Rubin.

But a small matter of a cloth cap led to Grimes' final break.

He's always worn a cloth cap while rowing—even in the Olympics. Grimes wore the same cap in preliminary trials late last year, but Oxford coach Jumbo Edwards announced to the rowers that he would have no one in his boat who wore a cap.

The American never returned for training. And, so far, he has not been asked to return.

Rubin was the key man in last year's rebel group—a group that included most of Oxford's star rowers.

The group wanted to use American rowing methods, form its own eight and then row a qualifying race against the official Oxford crew to decide who went on the water against Cambridge.

Oxford rowing president Ronald Howard turned them down.

Emile Had Last Words But Cats Had Victory

Disputed Tally Gives Cougars Overtime Win

Victoria 4, Spokane 3

By DOUG PEDEN

Emile "The Cat" Francis, who would just as soon chew nails as lose a hockey game, was mad enough to bite a chunk off a railroad spike as he held a lonely court in the Spokane dressing room at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

His team-mates had dressed and straggled away, but the veteran goaltender, half-dressed and tugging fiercely at an unruly T-shirt, was still protesting the overtime goal that had given Victoria Cougars a 4-3 Western Hockey League victory over the Spokes.

"It hit the bar and dropped by my feet," he rasped, "and I grabbed it right away. It never did go over the line. That goal judge must have been guessing."

However, to the goal judge and most of the 1,688 paying customers who were sitting at that end of the arena, it appeared that the puck was about two inches inside the goal before it disappeared under Emile's big glove.

Thus the Cougars are holding down a share of second place in the league's Coast Division today although they were only a few skinny inches away from the No. 4 spot Tuesday night.

It took the Cats only 58 seconds of the sudden-death overtime session to nail down the victory, but in the few hectic seconds before Stan Balluk blasted his 19th goal of the season the Spokes twice came within a whisker of picking up the marbles.

Cats Dozed Through Second Period

Buddy Bodman, who fired the shot that gave the Spokes a 5-4 win over the Cats in a "four-point" battle at Spokane Sunday, had two swings at the puck in a rousing scramble around the Victoria goal just after the extra period started, but somehow failed to hit the net.

Swinging out on a return rush, the Cougars were stopped briefly at their own blue line before Doug Anderson corralled the puck, carried into Spokane territory. He fed a pass to Balluk, who fired a long, high sizzler that appeared to catch Francis by surprise.

As soon as the goal light flashed, Emile and his pals swarmed in front of the goal judge and around referee Bing Jukes in a stormy protest that briefly threatened to erupt into a brawl.

Cougars, who gained a second-place deadlock with Vancouver Canucks with the win, started with several good rushes and it took some hustling checking by the Spokes to keep the score even, at 1-1, in the opening period.

But the Cats all but went to sleep in the middle session, turning in what was probably their most futile 20 minutes of the season, and were lucky to escape the pathetic period with only a 2-1 deficit.

Gordie Wilson Suffers Eye Injury

Proving once again that they can produce under pressure, the Cougars roared back in the third period, keeping the slim crowd on edge as they twice battled from behind before forcing overtime on Gordie Haworth's 10th goal of the season at 15:20.

Don Blackburn, on a fine solo rush, and Al Nicholson counted the other Victoria tally. Ching Johnson scored twice to boost his league-leading goal total to 23, and Don Atwell picked up one goal for the Spokes.

Goalie Marcel Pelletier, who again had Jim Hay blocking a lot of shots in front of the Victoria goal, turned aside 18 shots while Francis was credited with 29 saves.

Victory could prove to be a costly one for the Cougars. Centre Gordie Wilson, who scored three of Victoria's five goals in two weekend games at Spokane, was injured early in the third period.

Skating into a scramble for the puck on the south boards, Wilson was clipped by a stick, which struck him on the right eyelid, barely missing the eye.

Taken to hospital, Wilson was reported to have suffered a hemorrhage of the interior eye socket and a bruised eye.

Although it is probable that he will be able to return to action in a few days, club physicians declined to issue any definite reports before examining the injury today.

Seattle Totems are traveling a rocky road in their current trip through the Western Hockey League's Prairie Division.

Leaders of the league's Coast Division, the Totems went down to their third straight defeat at Edmonton Tuesday night when Edmonton Flyers rapped in three first-period goals and then held on for a 3-2 victory before 4,180 fans.

Rookie Murray Oliver, Jack Hendrickson and Don Polle counted for the Flyers, who stretched their lead in the Prairie Division to six points.

GUYLE GETS ONE

Snipers for Totems, who lead the runner-up Vancouver Canucks by five points in the Coast race, were Frank Arnett and Guyle Fielder. For Fielder, the WHL's leading point-getter, it was the first point in three games.

Seattle coach Keith Allen pulled goalie Bev Bentley in the final minute, but the Totem power play failed to produce the tying tally.

Bentley was the star of the game, stopping a total of 46 shots and blanking the Flyers in the final two periods.

Touring Russians Record Third Win

DETROIT (AP)—The barnstorming Russian all-star hockey team remained undefeated Tuesday night by trouncing a combined University of Michigan-Michigan State all-star team 7-3.

It was the Russians' third straight victory after an opening tie on their U.S. trip.

The slick-skating, well-conditioned visitors were troubled only in the first period when the collegians—most of them Canadians—held them to a 1-1 tie. But the Russians pushed four goals into the nets in a 10-minute span in the second period, demonstrating a fast-skating, precision-passing attack that at times baffled the harder-checking collegians.

Alexis Guryshov, 33-year-old forward, scored two Soviet goals and assisted on two others.

Four Russian goals were scored when the collegians had a man in the penalty box.

DRIVE SUCCESSFUL?

With Nothing to Say, Crowd Stayed Away

PENTICTON (CP)—RCMP and Penticton hockey fans joined in a tongue-watching session Tuesday night. It was successful, although there weren't that many tongues to watch.

In a drive to stop obscene language during Okanagan Senior Hockey League games here, RCMP were on duty at the arena as Penticton tied Kamloops 2-2 in overtime. Later, they reported no swearing incidents during the game. The size of the crowd helped—only 755 fans turned up, the smallest crowd of the season.

Alderman W. H. L. Whimster started the anti-profanity campaign when he complained Monday night at a city council meeting about an "obnoxious" amount of obscene language at a game last Friday night.

One thing remained unclear: did the fans stay away in general apathy which has hit the league attendance or because they couldn't vent their ire as usual?

Lions' Meeting Tonight May Be Scrappy Affair

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition from at least 18 directors and most football writers has apparently thwarted attempts to purchase the British Columbia Lions.

The Lions, Western Football Conference tail-enders in 1953 but a box-office hit since their entry in 1953, now find their franchise is being sought by at least two private groups.

A decision on selling the club will be made tonight at the Lions' annual meeting. Voting rights are held by some 3,000 members who put up $20 each to help Lions gain a franchise five years ago. Proxy voting is not allowed.

Election of 12 directors for two-year terms and one for a one-year period will also be carried out. The club constitution calls for a minimum of 24 and maximum of 30 directors. Now there are 25.

Members will seek a change in the team's official name to British Columbia Football Club from Vancouver WIFU Football Club.

Four constitutional resolutions will also be studied.

Nine directors will seek re-election. Others include Bill Boivin, former general manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers; Neil Colville, one-time NHL star, and Hilliard Lyle, a Royal Canadian Golf Association governor.

Groups seeking to purchase the Lions have campaigned vigorously for the last three weeks. They said private control would give the club stability, better management and more and better American imports.

Harry Spring, Lions president, said charges of poor management are false. He said there is complete harmony among the directors.

Spring added that claims that more and better Americans would be obtained by private owners are foolhardy. The only method is to go out and scout them as now is done.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Shooting men never had it so good as far as variety of weapons is concerned.

More sportsmen than ever are burning powder and they are willing to part with healthy chunks of cash for shotguns and rifles. However, today's hunter knows what he wants and just any smokepole won't do. As a result, the arms and ammunition companies are falling all over themselves in competition for the hunting dollars, each attempting to produce a line of firearms that will fit any shooting taste.

In fact, so many new things have come out in the last year or so—rifles, shotguns, cartridges, telescopic sights and shooting aids—that the fellow figuring to pick up a new weapon before next fall will have to hustle to examine them all, even though many of them have yet to hit the shelves of Victoria stores.

Although it has no place in Canadian shooting, one of the new items in the rifle line that interests me is the most powerful rifle ever produced commercially—the .460 Weatherby African.

The rifle and its ammunition are being turned out as standard equipment at the California factory of Roy Weatherby, who has just introduced the Weatherby Mark V series, claimed to be the first all-new bolt-action design produced in America since 1914.

His .460 elephant-buster burns approximately 100 grains of smokeless powder to toss a .45-calibre slug weighing 500 grains through the barrel of a streamlined rifle at 2,725 feet per second. That adds up to a muzzle energy of 8,275 foot pounds—more than four tons of bullet force—which is an almost unbelievable amount of energy to come from any shoulder weapon.

It's about 60 per cent more than that produced with bullets of the same weight class fired from English-made double-barreled elephant guns, which are in the 5,000-pound class, along with the .438 Winchester.

Boiled down a bit more, it is about four times the wallop packed by your .30-30.

This chunk of death and destruction would be murder on the shoulder if it wasn't for a clever muzzle brake patented by an Oregonian named John Mutter. The brake is a built-in gadget that uses the force of powder gas to slow recoil of the 11-pound firearm to reasonable proportions.

The new Weatherby Mark V is also being produced in several other magnum calibres and all standard calibres with most of the rifles weighing around 7½ pounds. Among the features of the new action are nine locking lugs, instead of the conventional two, which gives the rifle tremendous strength, and a bolt lift of only 54 degrees, instead of the standard 90-degree lift.

Savage has come out with a couple of surprises in its new bolt-action rifle. Using a Mauser action, the Model 110 has the bolt recessed so it shrouds the head of the cartridge case. The locking lugs are double and the safety is on the tang, convenient for either a right or left-handed shooter.

It has an adjustable trigger pull and comes in two lengths, the longer one for .270 and .30-06 calibres and a 6½-pound weapon with 22-inch barrel for either .243 or .308 calibres.

Colt, which stepped back into rifle production a couple of years ago, is producing a good-looking rifle in .243 and .30-06 calibres. The distinctive feature of the Colt is multi-groove rifling, which was revived successfully by Marlin a few years back. Marlin uses 16 grooves and Colt 12 shallow grooves instead of four to six deep ones. For my money, multi-groove rifling produces less bullet deformation and thus greater accuracy.

Additional bolt-action rifles are being imported from Europe and one that has been with us for some time—the Husqvarna—is now being produced with a left-hand bolt. Although almost 12 per cent of our riflemen start their shooting as southpaws, this is the first time I have heard of a left-handed action available as standard equipment.

Of the new cartridges, Remington is turning out one which rivals the popular .270. It is the .280, which comes in four bullet weights—100, 125, 150 and 165 grains. The 165-grain slug, heavier than any commercially loaded for the .270, has a blunt nose and is intended for shooting in the bush, which could make it an extremely popular deer rifle.

Winchester has two new cartridges planned for production this year. One of these, the .338, will have ample killing power to handle any game in North America. It will be loaded in three weights—300, 250 and 200 grains. The 200-grain bullet will have a muzzle velocity of 3,050 feet per second, which will make it a suitable cartridge for hunting in open country.

Reports on the other Winchester cartridge promise amazing results. It is labelled the .264 and drives a bullet of 140 grains out of the muzzle at 3,250 feet per second, 100 foot-seconds faster than the 130-grain .270 slug.

Being smaller in diameter and heavier than the .270 bullet, the .264 should produce a flatter trajectory over 300 yards than any cartridge now on the market using a bullet suitable for deer.

And if you want real speed, the .264 will also be loaded with a 100-grain bullet that will whistle away at an astounding 3,750 feet per second.

Those are just a few of the new rifle items. There are lots more which should intrigue the prospective rifle-buyer and make for more interesting hunting.

Blood Donor Flow Slows to Trickle

Victorians have failed again to respond to the appeal of the Red Cross blood clinic.

Tuesday, the first day of the drive, they received only 135 pints out of a 250-pint objective.

"We are hoping for double that tomorrow," said blood donor panel secretary Mrs. Violet Thistle. "The need is very urgent."

She urged everyone with O Rh negative blood to give a pint since this type, which can be given to anyone with negative blood type, is greatly in demand.

The clinic today will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

GROWERS' GROUP HAPPY WITH MACPHEE REPORT

PENTICTON (CP)—A. R. Garrish, president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, said Tuesday the MacPhee royal commission report has answered the questions that were in the minds of the growers who prompted the commission's appointment.

"The dean (Dr. Earl MacPhee) has come out in full support of the principle of the continuation of controlled orderly marketing of our products," Mr. Garrish said.

IN FRUIT INDUSTRY REPORT Packinghouse Cutback Urged

There are too many packinghouses in operation for the size of the tree fruit crop anticipated in the next five years, according to the MacPhee report on the industry. The royal commission report was made public by Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy this week. It was a 22-month project of Dean E. D. MacPhee, who was loaned to the provincial government by UBC.

Summarizing the 810-page report, the agriculture minister noted:

"Commissioner MacPhee has prepared a detailed study on packinghouses for a number of reasons. The basic factor is that while prices in the retail trade for the products have increased, the growers have not benefited."

He said that larger retail and wholesale markups and transportation costs absorbed much of the margin.

"It appeared to the commissioner, there might be one step in this chain over which the grower might exercise some control—the costs in the packinghouse."

The commissioner made enquiries and discovered that packinghouse costs, including boxes, had risen from 35 cents in 1939 to 88 cents in 1950 and $1.10 in 1957. The increase is almost equivalent to the 87-cent return to the grower in 1957.

One of the commissioner's proposals is for consolidation of packinghouses by areas. It is strongly recommended B.C. Fruit Growers' Association initiate a study on this problem, and is expected to be a major item of business at a forthcoming convention at Vernon.

Elsewhere in the report, Dean MacPhee noted rising costs of transportation are a growing concern to growers.

Unless political pressure brings about a reclassification for fruit shipped by rail, or unless the growers set up their own system of road carriers, there will be further increases in this regard.

He named the following as committee chairmen: Ald. J. J. Kerrone, finance, fire wardens, and public works; Ald. S. H. Saunders, social assistance and parks and gardens.

Loss Hits $20,000 In Home Fire

PARKSVILLE—Loss was estimated at $20,000 in a fire Tuesday that destroyed "Stella Maris," well known waterfront home here, and nearly all its contents.

Absent at the time were Mr. and Mrs. George Dumas, and their child; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carlson and two children, and two relatives, Steve Dumas and Glen Carlson. The four-geen owned the building together.

The fire broke out in the living room of the seven-room house. A neighbor turned in the alarm when he saw smoke pouring from the windows, and although Parksville fire department arrived promptly, firemen could save only a cedar chest and some clothing. Loss was covered by insurance.

Mill Planned For Langford

Van-Isle Moulding and Millwork Ltd. of Elk Lake is planning a new mill at Langford that could employ up to 200 men on a full-time basis, company president Peter Brotherton announced Tuesday.

The present plant employs 40 men. The new mill, which would produce casing, mouldings, and base boards for export, would employ 70 men immediately, and gradually increase to the higher figure.

Mr. Brotherton said he will not make a move until the property has been zoned for industry, and obstacles to future expansion are removed.

CANT EXPAND
"Otherwise we would be in the same situation we have today, where we cannot add to our building," he said.

He said the investment would total "several hundred thousand dollars."

Chosen for the plant is a four-acre tract on Jacklin Road beside the E & N Railway. It would be leased from the CPR.

Officials of the regional planning board have said a public meeting will be held before rezoning is undertaken.

COLWOOD SUPPORT
Rezoning will have the support of the industrial development group of Colwood and District Chamber of Commerce, according to T. R. Edwards, group chairman. In that way, he said, any industry wishing to locate in the zoned

Shop Centre Decision Soon

Saanich council will consider the municipal yard on Douglas opposite the Island Highway-Patricia Bay Highway junction. Total area of the development, if the company obtains the municipal yard, would be 13 or more acres.

Mr. Bentall said the major component of the proposed centre—believed to be a department store—still had not been tied up with a lease. But he did say that one of the "lesser" components had been leased by a food market. Dominion Construction was one of two firms that bid for the municipal property last year for a shopping development but decision was delayed by council due to the amalgamation referendum.

NASSER ARRESTS 300 IN SYRIA RED PURGE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Nasser has carried out in Syria one of the biggest purges of Communists in the Middle East, arresting more than 300 persons.

The arrests beginning last Thursday virtually wiped out the Communist organization in the Syrian region of Nasser's United Arab Republic. But the man often regarded as the leading Communist in the Middle East was reported to have got away.

He is Khaled Bagdash, a veteran red who went behind the Iron Curtain when Syria joined Egypt in the U.A.R. last Feb. 1 but returned last autumn. Nasser always has kept a tight rein on Egyptian Communist activities.

Labor Fight in Open

Long-simmering unrest within the Victoria Labor Council is expected to boil over when first nominations for election of officers are called tonight.

A minority group within the council is understood to be dissatisfied with the present executive council and will attempt to replace holders of the three top posts.

They are president Robert Barrie, vice-president E. T. Staley and secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone.

Also at stake are the chairmanships of eight council committees.

TOONE BLAMED

The splinter group's opposition to the present executive erupted recently when it blamed Toone for labor's failure to penetrate city council in the Dec. 11 elections.

A group spokesman charged that Toone failed to get a seat for one year.

because he took a non-partisan stand, not a stand for labor, although Toone's campaign committee subsequently took credit for the policy.

A spokesman for the minority group Tuesday said it had drawn up a slate of candidates for the council executive, but declined to name them.

Further nominations (after tonight) will be called Jan. 21, on which date the actual election will be held. All posts are for one year.

SCIENTIST SAYS FRUIT AND VEGETABLES PERFECT FOR MOON TRY

Professor Bruno von Nixkopf, internationally known galaxy man and space expert, today disclosed his theory for an easy way to reach the moon—with fruit and vegetables instead of rockets.

"Liquid fuel, solid fuel mit rockets iss der bunk," the professor said. "Ve are wasting time mit such schtoonken nonsense, and ve geddung noblace. I figure oudt besser way. Ve use fruit and vegetables."

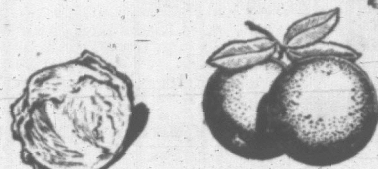

When asked to explain his unusual theory, von Nixkopf continued. "Mit research, vun fact I find oudt, dot Low Cost Food Markets, haff der best, und I mean best, fruits and vegetables on der market. "Right now Low Cost Food Markets are gettink fruits and vegetables from Mexico, Florida, Calif. and B.C., so I call dem tell dem mine idea. Dey should shippen me der fruits and vegetables before der peoples buying it all up are."

"Only vun ting boddars me," the professor concluded. "I haff not figured yet oudt I fix der fruits and vegetables vun on top der odder do it schticks goot. Vell, back to der laboratory."

Girl Guides Launch First Fund Drive for New Campsite Near Sooke

Greater Victoria Girl Guides' Association launches the first public campaign in its 45-year history this week for funds to develop a newly-acquired 160-acre campsite near Sooke.

Mrs. A. G. Gosling, Greater Victoria area commissioner, in command of 1,800 Girl Guides from Victoria, Oak Bay and part of Esquimalt, announced today that letters will be sent out in a mail campaign for financial assistance.

The mail campaign will continue throughout February. The Guides themselves will raise money at a Festival of Camping March 21 in Bay Street Armoury.

The new campsite, purchased for $5,600 and held in trust for the Guides by four benefactors, is located on Coal Creek, off the Jordan River Road, 10 miles west of Sooke.

The Guides need at least $2,000 to develop the site for initial use this summer and about $10,000 for ultimate development of five camps on the property.

The development will be the association's golden jubilee project marking the 50th anniversary of Canadian Guiding, which will be celebrated by members across Canada during 1960.

Mrs. Gosling said the new campsite is needed to accommodate the rapidly expanding membership of the association. Since 1956 the membership has doubled to its present 1,800 level.

"In the next decade we anticipate a membership of up to 5,000," she said.

The association's present six-acre campsite in Sooke will be converted into a Brownie camp for the eight to 11-year-old members of the junior organization.

"We need the support of the general public to develop the new camp. Unlike the Boy Scouts, our organization is not a member of the Community Chest and has been self-supporting since it was organized in 1914," Mrs. Gosling said.

But the Guides need help from community organizations and citizens to carry out their new undertaking.

"Our own members will try to raise funds, too, by putting on the Festival of Camping, the first venture of its kind that we have organized," Mrs. Gosling said.

The festival at the armoury, to run from 2 to 9:30 p.m. March 21, will include demonstrations of camping by Guides, exhibits of camping clothes and equipment, home-baking sales and a carnival row of games for children.

Development of the campsite has been divided into two phases.

The short-term program, designed to make the campsite habitable this summer, includes clearing, construction of cooking fires, installation of permanent latrines and partial damming of Coal Creek to create a swimming pool.

About 200 Guides would be accommodated at the camp this summer, in groups of about 35, staying for a week or two.

The long-term development program will see ultimate establishment of five camps on the property—each accommodating 35 girls—and construction of a nurse's hut, permanent dining shelters and one large recreation building for poor weather.

"The campsite will be large enough to accommodate any national or international gathering of Guides that might come here and we feel that is an important advantage," Mrs. Gosling said.

"We're hoping, aside from individual contributions, that some of the community service organizations here will help us by undertaking to establish some of the projects, such as the swimming pool, the clearing or the cooking fireplaces."

MONTE ROBERTS

The current issue of Reader's Digest features an article entitled "49 Ways to Make Marriage More Exciting." My first reaction, on noting this title, was to throw the magazine out the window.

My personal opinion is, there should be an article setting forth 49 ways to make marriage less exciting. Marriage, per se, is exciting enough to make a man's blood pressure burble, no matter how many years of it he has endured.

The reason for this is, one half of a marriage is a woman, and as long as women are women, there'll be excitement enough, without chasing around for 49 ways to get more of it.

However, in the interest of pure research, I began to read the article.

And the very first of the 49 ways was this: "Kiss the back of your wife's neck once a day." (Honest, I am not making this up. It's on page 116 of the January edition.)

Kiss the back of your wife's neck at least once a day! If I started to follow this advice, my wife would tell me to see my psychiatrist at least twice a year.

The next item of advice the Reader's Digest offers is this:

"Cry a little—she'll love mothering you." I don't know how it is with you, but if I went home crying, my wife would ask me where I drank my lunch.

"Ask her advice on business problems, and sometimes take it." You can always re-finance.

"Kiss her in public. She may look embarrassed, but she'll love it."

Well, THAT should lead to excitement, all right, especially if the wife has a good left hook.

"Never ask her 'what have you done all day, dear?'" I can't see where this makes any difference to the degree of excitement, because she'll tell you whether you ask her or not.

There are 44 more items of advice in the Reader's Digest list, to make the total 49.

And I would like to add number 50:

"Always treat your wife (or husband) like a human being, because chances are she (or he) is."

CADETS LEANING TO LEeward IN ROUGH INITIATION TO SEA

One hundred navy cadets received a rugged introduction to a sea-going career today.

They left Esquimalt Harbor embarked in four frigates for a 30-day training cruise while gale-force winds swept down Juan de Fuca Strait.

The frigates pitched, tossed and rolled as they rounded Race Rocks.

It was first time at sea for most of the cadets, who are enrolled at HMCS Venture, and the results were as could be expected.

The training cruise will take the cadets to the Hawaiian Island area.

Frigates involved are HMC Ships Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigonish, Beacon Hill. They will return Feb. 6.

64 MPH Gusts Knock Out Power

Gale force winds averaging 44 miles per hour and gusting to 64 swept over Victoria and district today.

One major power failure, and minor interruptions to individual telephone service, resulted.

Tugs and other small ships are waiting out the storm in sheltered waters.

Floater were broken loose at Oak Bay Boathouse, which is exposed to the southeast gale.

B.C. Electric power lines were blown down at Bay and Bridge Street at 11:36 a.m., leaving Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street plant and several houses without electricity.

A tree was blown down across the driveway at 405 Treebank, narrowly missing a parked car and taking out telephone and light wires.

B.C. Telephone reported fewer interruptions to service than is usual in high winds.

NO TROUBLE

B.C. Power Commission service was uninterrupted up to noon.

The Dominion weather office said the winds would haul around to the southwest this evening and slacken off to 25 miles an hour.

The blow was caused by a "satellite" of a major storm centred west of the Queen Charlotte islands.

Patricia Ann Blake, 1678 North Dairy, $25 for speeding over 30.

Cornelius M. Vogelaar, 1013 Esquimalt, $10 for driving a truck without mud flaps.

Hospital Emergency Cases Soar

But Year-End Troubles Less

Use of Victoria hospital emergency departments increased by nearly 10 per cent in 1958 as year-end figures show a total 23,241 cases handled at Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

Despite the general increase, both hospitals report a drop in the seasonal bug-bear of Christmas-New Year's traffic accident cases.

Favorable driving weather and heavy publicity encouraging safe driving were credited with the improved situation here.

As always, however, there was no relaxation in preparedness for any emergency at either of the general hospitals, which maintain 24-hour emergency wards.

At St. Joseph's, for example, a serious emergency patient can be fully prepared for surgery within 10-20 minutes of his arrival. Equally prompt attention can be given at Jubilee.

Both hospitals accommodate a large number of non-emergency cases at their emergency wards as a convenience to doctors and patients where minor surgery is involved.

TOTAL CASES

Totals of the number of cases handled include these:

In 1957, 21,156 patients went through emergency departments; 10,556 at St. Joseph's and 10,600 at Jubilee.

Last year at St. Joseph's there were 11,041 cases and at Jubilee 12,200.

There was no breakdown on patients handled during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season at Jubilee but at St. Joseph's it was noted there were only nine traffic victims treated against 14 in the same week of 1957.

St. Joseph's emergency handled a total 231 patients in this period of 1958, an increase of 30 over the previous year.

Jubilee Hospital breaks down its emergency cases to show that accidents of all kinds—mostly within the home—accounted for 7,513 of the total in 1958. There were 6,650 accident cases in 1957.

Traffic accidents accounted for 351 cases treated at St. Joseph's in 1958; 329 in 1957.

Minor cases accounted for about half the total number of emergency patients at St. Joseph's in both years—5,528 in 1958 and 5,257 in 1957.

Third Remand For Farmer In Shooting

Central Saanich farmer Adam Reich was remanded for the third time on a manslaughter charge in police court Tuesday.

A date for preliminary hearing in the shooting death of Arrie Schut, 6½, Dec. 21, was to have been set but was put over to next week due to absence of counsel.

It is expected the hearing will then be set for Jan. 20 in Central Saanich police court. Reich, a next-door neighbor of the Schut family, was charged with manslaughter a few hours after the boy died with a bullet through his upper chest.

The man told police he had taken a shot at a marauding dog on his property just behind his house, and was unaware that Arrie and playmates were a few hundred feet away on the Schut property.

Speedup Asked On Auditorium

Long Delay Upsets Job-Hungry Union

Business manager of a union with one-fifth of its members unemployed today demanded a speed-up in planning the Greater Victoria civic auditorium "so we can put some men to work."

Jack Driscoll, representing 1,200 local electricians, blamed "apathy, combined with a little financial trouble" for collapse of the auditorium project in previous years.

He said building an auditorium would provide jobs for 70 to 100 electricians for up to 18 months.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said an auditorium still is a live issue as far as he is concerned but it "cannot be built overnight."

The city could not build an auditorium without the help of the other Greater Victoria municipalities.

"A lot of preliminary work is needed—getting definite facts and figures on the size, cost, location and operating revenues of an auditorium," he said.

WORKING NOW

"We're working on size and cost right now and as soon as we have all the information we need we will take it up with the other municipalities again and see if something can be done."

Last year the mayor proposed a Greater Victoria civic auditorium to the intermunicipal committee but he met lukewarm response from the other municipal leaders.

Since then, city technical planner Roderick Clack has been investigating various construction methods of reducing the $2,800,000 cost.

BIG PROJECT

Mayor Scurrell also pointed out that the city has undertaken a big project for 1959 already—the View Street mall and parking garage development—which would create employment.

Driscoll said many of the jobs created by an auditorium construction would go to members of his union who had been eight months without work, making a "tremendous difference to their lives. There is something wrong when we have 225 electricians looking for work."

"An auditorium would make a big difference to this city—in fact, it would make Victoria."

"During the 1954 electricians' convention in Miami, delegates from the Victoria local suggested the 1958 convention be held in Victoria because we were sure an auditorium to hold it would have been built by then."

"But the auditorium wasn't built and we had to turn the delegates away. One convention alone would bring about 4,000 people to the city, along with considerable revenue."

'Wrapup' Due For 4,000 City Bylaws

City council likely will order a general revision and consolidation this year of its 4,000 bylaws.

Mayor Percy Scurrell today said the proposal will be discussed at a finance committee meeting next week.

The consolidation of the civic ordinances would take about one year and cost about $10,000.

Last consolidation was completed in 1939.

PRE-CHARTER MOVE

"It is badly needed now and it also is a necessary step before we can apply for our own city charter," the mayor said.

He added that it was likely, if the consolidation is launched, that the oft-amended streets traffic bylaw would be among the first to be brought up to date.

An outside lawyer would have to be retained full-time to carry out the project if it is approved.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you give me some information about rock gas? I hear it is bad for one's heart. I have not been feeling good since we moved to our present place, my first experience with rock gas.—A.M.W.

A. It is a non-poisonous fuel. Propane or rock gas, is a by-product of crude oil. But if you feel any irritation you should contact a dealer as the vents, as required in all gas installations, may not be working properly. This won't poison you, but it might make your eyes water.

Q. How long has the government's unemployment insurance scheme been in operation?—C.C.C.

A. Since July, 1941.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve confidential or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Third Manning Lecture Jan. 16 Under Rotary Club Sponsorship

John Manning's widely-bailed "Around the World" illustrated lecture will be made available to a wider audience under sponsorship of Victoria Rotary Club, it was announced today.

President Maurice Green announced that the talk will be given Jan. 16 at Central Junior High School at 8 p.m., with Rotary underwriting all expenses. This auditorium can seat 1,500.

A collection will be taken, with total proceeds going to the building fund of Goodwill Enterprises, a Rotary project which has provided jobs for 43 of Victoria's handicapped citizens.

It is expected that Fred Blakeney, sparkplug of the Goodwill idea in this area, will make an appearance in behalf of the fund.

Manning will give a half-hour "preview" of his talk to Rotarians at their regular meeting in Empress Hotel Thursday, at which details of the Jan. 16 meeting will be outlined by Harold Elworthy, who met the young traveller in Sydney, Australia.

In charge of the Jan. 16 show are Rotarians Jack Houser and Eric Mathett. Tickets for Manning's Friday night lecture at Oak Bay Junior High School, under Times sponsorship, have all been snapped up. This showing is in aid of the Unitarian Services Committee.

Winter Winds a Menace To a Woman's Fair Skin!

By PENNY SAVER

Blustery winds and chilly breezes certainly play havoc on a woman's otherwise creamy complexion . . . and if you're like me, this frigid weather we've been having has done nothing to benefit the skin!

What we need is a vitaminized complexion cream that will build up our skin cells and smooth out the dry, chapped rough areas. Here is a special vitamin A-D cream priced at $2 a jar.

Ooh! How luxurious to step out of the tub after a warm bath and give yourself a creamy lotion rubdown with this vitaminized product. It's a lovely pink cream fortified with lanolin . . . slightly less concentrated than the complexion cream but it also works in revitalizing skin cells. Use this glorious substance on hands, elbows and heels. It's selling at $1.25 a bottle.

Is your nose slightly scarlet when you come in out of the cold and wet weather? Not too good if you're a busy person, with little time to keep touching up your face.

There's a marvellous French liquid-make-up base on the market that stays fresh looking hour after hour, just after gust of wind. It's easy to apply and gives your skin a dewy look. It's in six flattering shades to suit each complexion tone at 1.25 a container.

There is nothing harder on a woman's complexion than the air in over-heated buildings followed by a blast of icy breezes when she goes outdoors.

The result is devastating as a sensitive skin will show! Pores become enlarged and irritations such as blackheads and pimples pop out on the skin and beauty is marred. A toning lotion will help reduce trouble. It stimulates the skin and comes in an attractive bottle priced tagged at $2.

Phone me at EV 2-3131 . . . I'll tell you where I found all these beauty aids!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It Is Never Too Late To Improve Looks

Have you lost the feeling of personal attractiveness you once had? Perhaps life has "moved you down" to some extent with its responsibilities and disappointments, and being human, you have neglected yourself.

Of one thing I am sure! The knowledge that she looks as lovely as possible gives a woman's ego a lift which nothing else can, and makes her better able to cope with whatever problems she may have. It is never too late! Although it is true that it is easier to prevent signs of aging or overweight than it is to correct them, yet it is never too late to make great improvement in your looks or your personality.

At this time each year I bring you my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. All over the country women are joining to see how much they can improve themselves in eight weeks time. Eight weeks is such a short time that anyone can keep determination firm for that long, but it is long enough to lose 20 pounds, decrease measurements, and improve your skin, hair and posture.

Exercise does wonders for your figure, complexion and health. You will find exercises for the most usual faults in my Marathon booklet. Today let me give those of you who wish to try Marathon an easy exercise to do before you receive your booklet.

Another. The same starting position. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Straighten the leg, toe pointing toward the ceiling. Lower leg to the floor with a stiff knee. Do the same thing with the right leg and continue, alternating left and right.

WORMS

MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Pidgeting, nose-picking and a tormented face are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms. . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestine where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret. Remember, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

DEAR ABBY . . .

He's Ailing All Right!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if your husband bought food like he was feeding a family of 12 and couldn't get to a grocery store for a year? That's my Gus. I'm a wreck from shifting canned goods, sacks of flour and cases of detergent around. He hunts up bargains in the newspapers and runs to food sales and fills up the car. My cellar and cupboard are so crammed full we could feed an army and there's just the two of us and we never entertain. We live one block from a supermarket. I think he's crazy. This has been going on for years. I bought a freezer but it only made matters worse because now he's got that filled with frozen foods. What's ailing him, anyhow?

DEAR ANXIOUS: A psychiatrist would probably call this a "compulsion to hoard." Your husband really should stop and see a doctor on his way home from the store sometime.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my thirties who, about six months ago, decided to have plastic surgery on a nose that was so big it gave me a complex. It was a very successful operation, but my problem is this. When I see friends I haven't seen in a long while and they say, "You look simply wonderful but there is something different about you and I can't figure out what it is," should I tell them or not?

RIVA.

DEAR RIVA: Certainly. If you don't—somebody else will. DEAR ABBY: My fiancé is stationed in Germany and will be there for two years. Before he left we became engaged and he gave me a beautiful diamond. My fiancé says it is okay for me to go out on dates with other boys while he's gone to take my mind off my loneliness. My parents say that no engaged daughter of theirs is going out on dates. Don't you think that if my FIANCE doesn't mind, my parents have no say in the matter? I am almost 18. LONESOME.

DEAR LONESOME: I agree with your parents. It was generous of your fiancé to give his approval, but since you accepted his diamond, you should decline his offer to date others. You made your choice.

DEAR ABBY: There is this girl at school who I am sure is a very nice girl underneath it all, but if I told anybody that I liked her they wouldn't associate with me any more. She wears so much make-up that you would think she was made up to go on a stage. Her hair is up and she boasted that she had 101 bobby pins in it. One of the teachers made her wash her face once, but the next day she had the make-up on as thick as always and said that was the style and the teacher was square. Do you know of any way I could help this girl without insulting her? CAROLYN.

DEAR CAROLYN: The girl you describe is not likely to accept criticism from anyone who is merely a nodding acquaintance. If you are sincere about "helping" her . . . gain her confidence by offering your friendship first. Then move in with the helpful suggestions.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

Spring Flowers for Bride Married in Naden Chapel

Chapel in HMCS Naden was decorated with hyacinths and daffodils for the wedding Saturday of Miss Eleanore Patricia Hornby and Thomas Godfrey Humphrey. Bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hornby, 3914 Prestwood Drive and the groom is the son of Mrs. J. Armstrong, Toronto, and the late Mr. C. Humphrey.

Officiating clergyman was Padre I. R. Edwards and Miss R. Thomson played traditional organ music. Mr. Hornby gave his daughter in marriage. The wedding gown was floor length white satin cut on princess lines with lace panels in the skirt. Bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, lily point sleeves and rows of tiny covered buttons down the front and back. Net veil misted from a pearl crown and was edged with a thread-run lace design of leaves. Bouquet was red roses and white carnations. The bride's only jewelry was pearl earrings.

Maid of honor, Miss Gail Potter, chose a blue princess style gown of taffeta and chiffon.

Sister of the bride, Miss Marlene Hornby, was bridesmaid. Her gown was pale pink chiffon and taffeta. Both attendants carried nosegays of carnations with white streamers in pink and blue respectively.

Mother of the bride greeted guests at a reception held after the wedding at the Lake Hill Community Hall. She wore a gown of blue silk and corsage of pink and white carnations. Gordon Harvey was best man and ushers were J. Wood and T. Davey.

C. W. Potter proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving on honeymoon the bride chose a sheath style dress in Paris pink mohair with black accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

The couple will be in Victoria until February when they will leave to make their home in Toronto.

They Work And Plan Together

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—When they're at work, at least, Mrs. Philip Lloyd is the boss. She's the principal of the only high school on Aherst Island, near Kingston. Her husband is her assistant.

The couple form the entire staff of the school on the island in the St. Lawrence River. It has about 16 high school students, and a public school run by two other teachers in the same building.

The island, a 14,600-acre stretch of land, has about 400 inhabitants.

Visiting Mrs. Lloyd's parents here, Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilson, it was explained by Mr. Lloyd.

"The fact that my wife is principal doesn't enter into it. We work and plan things together."

Mrs. Lloyd is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, and Mr. Lloyd, 23, hopes to return to Queen's this year to complete his degree.

Of course, his seven high card points do guarantee that game will make but he wants to be there and much prefers to have his partner be the declarer. A spade or diamond lead through his partner might cost him the trick but such a lead through his worthless doubtdions can't hurt anything.

Actually, the JTB has a must the way the cards lie. If North plays four hearts East will open a spade and North will go down one. If South leads a heart East will open a diamond and while the double dummy opening and jack of diamonds are tricks, the four hearts all is sunshine and South is an old shoe but there will be no time to keep South from getting in to run fourth club and making

TV ROUNDUP

Compiled by MICHAEL ROSE

All-Star Jazz and Bertrand Russell Interview Tonight

GOLDEN AGE—One of the top programs scheduled for tonight would seem to be the 60-minute All-Star Jazz presentation hosted by Jackie Gleason.

A formidable array of talent has been assembled to celebrate the "coming of age of jazz in the last few years."

Included in the program will be the groups of Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, George Shearing, and Dizzy Gillespie.

Gleason will describe the great increase in jazz's prestige and popularity backed by a "free swinging affair" with the musicians jamming in various combinations.

Jazz buffs should certainly catch this one and it would certainly repay attention by even "square" music lovers.

WHILE ON THE SAME SUBJECT, word has it that the local jazz society had planned to bring Seattle singer Pat Suzuki over here but was frustrated by her sudden departure for Broadway and a starring role in the "Flower Drum Song."

The tiny Japanese-American singer "worked" the Pacific Northwest, including Vancouver, for five years before being tested and accepted for the coo dancer role in Flower Drum.

Her performance in the offbeat Rodgers and Hammerstein musical has won her more plaudits than featured lead of the show, California's Mioshi Umeki.

"Have you checked on the men working in the ditch lately?"

FOR MRS. SCURRAH?

Word From England On Mayoress Title

The latest word in the continuing controversy over whether Mrs. P. B. Scurrah should be proclaimed mayoress arrived from England Tuesday at City Hall.

Philip B. Dingle, city clerk of Manchester, Eng., wrote that every English city has a mayoress by custom, not legal requirement.

Mr. Dingle's letter replied to an inquiry by J. R. Coppinger, manager-secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

"While the mayor is elected under statute and has certain statutory duties assigned to him, his wife who assumes the title of mayoress has no legal standing in municipal government," Mr. Dingle said.

"As the office of mayoress is quite unknown to the law, there is no absolute necessity for one to be appointed. By custom, however, it is usual for the mayor to have a mayoress, to serve as a civic hostess for various occasions.

City council Monday referred a number of requests for appointment of Mayor Scurrah's wife as mayoress to its finance committee for study.

Sub Identified As British Stray

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP)—A 600-ton submarine snagged by two unsuspecting Spanish fishing boats was identified Monday night as the missing British sub Virulent, which broke away while being towed to the scrapyard last month.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

How Does an Ape Compare with a Gorilla?

The ocelot and the lion are cats. Both belong to the tooth-and-claw cat family. The chimpanzee and the gorilla are apes. Both of them belong to the ape family, the tailless, intellectual upper crust of the animal world. Some people call these smarties the anthropoids, which means 'manlike apes.'

The gorilla, then, is an ape. Compared with the other members of his family he is a giant. However, he rates only third on his school report card. His cousin the chimpanzee is at the top of the class and his cousin the orangutan is in second place in intelligence.

Though only 5½ feet tall, a big male gorilla may tip the scales at 600 pounds. His chest and shoulders are very wide and powerful. Though his legs are short, his long, strong arms reach down below his knees. He may have an arm spread of eight feet. The face

Makes New Bed Each Night

The gorilla family loves comfort. At night, a mother builds a leafy nest in a tree for herself and her baby. Papa is too heavy to sleep in a tree. So he gathers leaves and twigs and builds a nest on the ground. There he beds down to sleep, usually with his back propped up against a tree. These shelters are made for just one night's sleep. Sometimes a roof is built over the nest to keep out the rain. After all, the gorillas are apes, the clever ones of the animal world.

Though Mr. Gorilla can swing through the trees on his powerful arms, he prefers to spend most of his time on the ground. He can stand and walk almost upright. But when in a hurry he goes on all fours. He walks on the outer sides of his feet and the bent knuckles of his hands.

When threatened by an enemy, the big ape really puts on a show. He shows how intelligent he is by trying to settle the argument before it gets rough. He rears up to his full height, glaring and snarling. He beats his barrel chest with his fists. Then he lifts his shaggy head and gets ready to roar. The terrifying noise begins with a few sharp snarls and barks. It builds up to a blood-curdling yell which lingers and echoes through the jungle. We are not surprised to learn that the big ape has no natural enemies.

Andy send a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Shirley Bellefanti, age 11, of Nashville, Tenn., for her question:

Algae are simple plants, most of them living in the water. The sea moss and the sea lettuce are algae and so are all of the different kinds of sea weeds, from the tiny floaters too small for our eyes to see up to the long 600-foot kelp. The green pond scum and many fresh-water weeds are also algae. Certain pink algae live on the surface of snow and others team up with fungus plants to form lichens. We say that algae are simple plants because they have no roots. Nor are they divided into leaves and stems as the higher plants are. True, some of the seaweeds look like leafy branches. But each tendril does the work of leaves, roots and stems.

The long, trailing kelp clings to the ocean floor with a hold-fast which you might mistake for a root. However, its only job is to keep the long tendrils from floating away. It does not take in moisture for the whole plant as a true root does.

REVIEWING CANADA-U.S. TALKS

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the most significant decisions reached at the Canada-United States talks just concluded, Canadian sources say, is that the two countries now will have a strong, common approach to the problem of European economic integration.

They are convinced that as a result of the private two-day ministerial discussions, the U.S. will take more vigorous action in the next few months in attempts to end the trade fight between France and Britain and to obtain faster European dismantling of discrimination against North American goods.

These decisions were not readily apparent from the wording of the 1,500-word communiqué issued Tuesday night. Informants said it was necessary to write the statement in general terms for political and other reasons.

Neither Canada nor the U.S. wants to give any impression that the two countries will take sides in the French-British fight over developing of a 17-nation European free trade area or an extension of the six-country Common Market.

Concessions Gained From U.S.

Change domestic scene, Canadians feel they got a few concessions from the Americans which again were not too clearly stated in the communiqué. They feel they will get sympathetic American consideration when the current voluntary U.S. oil import curbs are changed Feb. 28.

There is high hope here that the curbs will be eliminated as far as Canada is concerned, perhaps on the grounds that the cross-border flow of oil should not be impeded because of the needs of continental defence.

There is confidence here that the Americans will be more careful in dealing with issues which could impinge on Canadian sovereignty over Canadian companies. The meeting is likely to lead to an American review of the U.S. anti-trust lawsuit dealing with American establishment of an electronics patents pool in Canada.

Definite decisions were not reached on every issue before the ministers. No one in Canadian quarters expected they would be. But they feel that progress is being made.

Face Firing Squad

HAVANA (AP)—Ten officers of former dictator Fulgencio Batista's armed forces have been executed in eastern Cuba, the revolutionary regime announced today.

Among those shot was Col. Arcadio Casillas Lumpuy, chief of Batista's operations in Oriente province, of which Santiago is the capital.

New Soviet Demand

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union insisted today that the United States and Britain drop their proposal to ban nuclear weapons tests on a year-by-year basis. Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said Russia wants this question settled now. The Russians seek a permanent ban.

VANCOUVER 'COPYCATS' AFTER PAN-AM GAMES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alderman Frank Baker asked city council today to make application to have the 1963 Pan-American Games staged in Vancouver. The request had support from new Mayor Tom

It followed receipt of a letter from Alan ... chairman of the Canadian Pan-American Games Committee, asking applications from Canadian cities.

Victoria city council also is considering applying for the 1963 games. Mayor Percy Scurrell said Tuesday the city may apply. Winnipeg, meanwhile, has had a committee working on an application since last fall.

Mikoyan Guest Of Cyrus Eaton

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrived here today to spend the day as a guest of industrialist Cyrus Eaton.

Mikoyan and his party were welcomed with a warm handshake by Eaton, but banners on a group of 100 cars, which assembled at the airport some two hours before their arrival from Washington, were not so cordial.

"Mikoyan—go home and take Eaton with you!" was one of the sentiments expressed on placards carried by six organizations in the protest demonstration.

100 POLICEMEN

More than 100 policemen were on hand to guard Mikoyan and the seven other Russians, including Mikhail Menshikov, Russian ambassador to Washington, and Mikoyan's son, Sergio, but there was no indication of violence.

Police chief Frank Story said his men would not interfere with the protest demonstration unless laws are broken, and a spokesman for the protesting groups, meeting in a vacant store in the Hungarian district, stressed that "our demonstration will be completely lawful. There will be no violence."

Eaton, in welcoming Mikoyan and his party, applauded the increasing "exchange of visits between the United States and the U.S.S.R."

Then the 75-year-old Canadian-born financier, who recently visited Russia, lashed out at American foreign policy and laws which prevent extension of huge American loans to finance enormous two-way trade with Russia. Mikoyan is expected to urge a revival of trade between the two nations.

Eaton, a vigorous advocate of better Soviet-American relations, said he hoped the visit would lead to a "revival of trade between the two nations."

Joint Power Plan Called 'Popycock'

Bennett, Grauer Under Fire From Briggs

By HAL MALONE

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer are talking the "sheerest kind of economic poppycock" when they say the Columbia, Peace River power schemes can be developed simultaneously.

H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the B.C. Power Commission made this unequivocal statement to the Shrum Royal Commission today.

Mr. Briggs also told the Shrum Commission:

1. There should be several years between the development of the Columbia and the Peace with the Columbia taking precedence.

2. The Canadian side of the Columbia has a potential 2,700,000 horsepower and the Canadian-controlled storage water may be worth as much as 1,300,000 horsepower.

3. Premier Bennett reacted strongly when he was told by the Power Commission that private power costs more than public power because of the difference in the treatment of corporation income taxes.

4. That the premier told power commissioners they could tell him what we wanted if we liked, but letters were not to be written to him.

5. That public ownership of a natural monopoly such as power—"using the resources of the people"—is not Socialism "but economic common sense."

6. Columbia power could be brought to the coast in large quantities for two to three mills.

7. That the B.C. Electric Public Utilities Commission in 1957 its anticipated annual load growth requirements were 220,000 horsepower; and

8. That Peace River Canyon power (promoted by Axel Wenner-Gren and the Peace River Power Development Corporation) will not be developed except in a small way, unless and until:

(a) An extremely large power-consuming industry, requiring several hundred thousand horsepower, is established in the region; and

(b) A shortage of lower cost hydro power develops in the central, southern or coastal regions of B.C., Alberta or the U.S.;

(c) A private company commences a superficial development with the intention of complying with the minimum government requirements to retain the developmental licence over a period of years, in order that eventually, it may own and control "this tremendous block of 4,000,000 horsepower."

Shrum Asks Gibbs for Correction

At the outset of today's hearing, Dr. Shrum called on Liberal MLA Archie Gibbs to correct an erroneous statement he made in a CBC political broadcast Monday.

Mr. Gibbs, who was not present today, told his radio audience Monday that the Shrum Commission had refused Mr. Briggs' counsel an opportunity to cross-examine Dr. J. V. Fisher, government economic adviser.

Earl Vance, who is counsel for Mr. Briggs with Hugh McGivern, agreed with Dr. Shrum that he had reserved his right to cross-examine Dr. Fisher.

Dr. Shrum opened his remarks with: "This is an inquiry, not a trial. Some allegations have been made which we are trying to establish their validity."

He praised the press and radio for a "good job" when faced with a "difficult problem" but said that Mr. Gibbs' statement appeared to have misinformed the public.

Dr. Shrum called on the MLA to have the statement corrected on the next CBC free-time, political broadcast next Monday.

Mr. Briggs' evidence on public-private power and power development by the Power Commission in the Peace River and northern interior was allowed by Dr. Shrum over the double objections of A. Bruce Robertson, counsel for the B.C. Power Corporation and its affiliated companies, including the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Robertson, who is also a director of Peace River Power Development Corporation, said Mr. Briggs' testimony on public-private power "bears no relation to the terms of reference" of the Shrum Commission.

The commission, consisting of Dr. Shrum, commissioners John Dunsmeuir and William

DULLES 'FINE' AFTER VIRUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles was back at his desk in the state department today after a bout with a virus infection. Aides said: "He's feeling fine."

(Dulles cancelled a planned trip to Ottawa this week because of the illness.)

Farmers To March On Ottawa

REGINA (CP)—Prairie farmers have warned Ottawa to beware the Ides of March. That is the probable period when hundreds of Westerners will descend on the Canadian capital, demanding deficiency payments for wheat, oats, and barley delivered during the last three years.

President Alf Gleave of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union said in an interview Tuesday plans for the march are progressing well, with the Manitoba and Alberta unions, as well as the Alberta and Saskatchewan wheat pools, behind it. No definite date has been set, he said, "but beware the Ides of March."

The Ides, a feature of the ancient Roman calendar, fall on March 15.

SEEK POLICY

"While our main purpose is to get consideration for the grain producer and to raise the farmer's purchasing power," Mr. Gleave said, "we are interested in establishment of an over-all agricultural policy to assure farmers a fair share of the national income and parity of income."

"Our purpose is not to embarrass the government but to inform the government, the press, and the public about the farmer's plight."

In their march, the farmers will have the moral support of Saskatchewan's CCF government.

$18M Bridge Plan

DETROIT (AP)—Engineering proposals for an $18,000,000 bridge to link the Sault Ste. Maries of Michigan and Ontario were to be unveiled today.

Space Challenge Faces New Congress Session

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new 86 Congress convened today with a Democratic leadership pledge of "responsible service" and a Republican minority operating under a changed command in both the House and Senate.

An economy challenge from President Eisenhower and a space challenge from the Russians were expected to dominate the first session of the Congress.

The Congress with which Eisenhower must deal in his last two years in the White

Seizure Power Used Again If Needed, Unions Warned

Premier Bennett has told the B.C. Federation of Labor he will use the Civil Defence Act again in a labor dispute if he considers it necessary, a federation official disclosed Tuesday.

Pat O'Neal, newly-appointed federation secretary, said Mr. Bennett made the statement after hearing a brief from the federation in Victoria.

The federation asked the provincial government to request a ruling from the courts on the Bennett administration's seizure of the Black Ball ferry fleet last summer when the line was tied up by a labor dispute.

The seizure was made under powers given the government through the Civil Defence Act. "We protested to the premier on his use of the Civil Defence Act in labor disputes," O'Neal told Vancouver Labor Council, "but he made it clear that this legislation would be used again if in his judgement it was necessary."

O'Neal said the situation posed "a serious and grave threat" to organized labor. The federation earlier dropped plans to test the legality of the seizure.

The 110,000-member organization's lawyers advised against court action because

"previous court rulings reflect that judges have not looked with favor on pursuing a subject through the courts when the particular incident no longer exists."

The federation had doubled its budget and increased dues to pay for a court test. O'Neal also reported Premier Bennett said the government could have taken over the B.C. Electric Co. "many years ago" but that now it was too big to buy.

The federation official said the premier made his remarks in reply to submissions that power companies should be publicly owned.

SNOW DRIFTS STALL TRAINS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two trains carrying 700 weary passengers arrived here Tuesday night. One was 86 hours late and the other 64.

They were stuck in snow drifts in the Clarendville area. A westbound train which left St. John's Jan. 2 arrived at Port aux Basques today—more than 100 hours behind schedule. The 550-mile trip normally takes 24 hours. It was also stuck near Clarendville.

Plows Free 300 Trapped In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—Snow-plows today opened an escape route for some 300 travellers trapped in Napierville, Que., by wind-whipped snowdrifts.

Napierville police said rescue teams reached their community 25 miles south of Montreal today, after cutting through 20-foot-high snowdrifts that blocked a Montreal-United States road.

Traffic was reported to be moving normally again.

It had been estimated that about 300 persons, most of them from the U.S., had taken refuge in garages, restaurants, hotels and homes at Napierville. Some 70 families were marooned in homes elsewhere in the district.

Gales Lash Europe Coast

LONDON (UPI)—Howling gales with a hurricane punch lashed northern Europe today, killing at least four persons and filling the air with SOS calls from stricken shipping.

The known fatalities occurred in Kjoellefjord, Norway, where an avalanche swept a hillside home into the sea. A 60-year-old man, his daughter and her two infant children were carried away.

Snow and ice blanketed northern England and Scotland, while further south the River Weiland was near the flood stage. Towering breakers flooded the coast road near the English town of Dovercourt.

CONTROVERSY RAGES, BUT ...

U.K. Theatres Keep Anthem

LONDON (Reuters)—British movie theatres are unlikely to change their policy of playing the National Anthem at the end of a performance, as suggested by The Manchester Guardian.

A spokesman for one of the big theatre chains, Associated British Cinemas, said today:

"The mass of the people obviously want it. We are certainly not considering any change."

The Guardian had published a letter from a reader complaining that a young man at a Sheffield theatre asked him to excuse him so that he could make his way to the aisle while the anthem was being played.

"His surprise was genuine when I refused," the reader said.

This, the reader said, could not have happened before 1939 and he wondered whether such men could help England win another war.

Other letters followed, some critical, others in support. On Monday The Manchester Guardian said that most movie theatre goers were patriotic citizens who sincerely wished that God might save the Queen. Some took the playing of the anthem seriously indeed and were offended by a rush to the doors and the slipping on of overcoats. The newspaper went on:

"If this devaluation is not to continue, the anthem, surely, should be played only when it is natural that its sentiments should seek expression—on royal or state occasions."

"There is no reason except custom why it should be a nightly habit; it is not in most other countries."

Victoria's Jobless Ready To Join Protest 'March'

A large division of Victoria's army of the unemployed is ready to join a proposed mass motorcade "march" by out-of-work Vancouver Island men to the Legislative Buildings later this month.

Some 5,000 men, including "several hundred" from Victoria, would take part in the march.

The plan—still in the tentative stage—was proposed by delegates to a three-hour union meeting in Nanaimo Sunday. The men would start out by car from Comox or the Alberni, picking up cars from all union locals on the way south to Victoria.

They would park outside the city and approach the Buildings on foot.

MURPHY HEADS NEW GROUP

Planning Committee Named for Saanich

A new council committee has been created by Saanich Reeve George Chatterton to assist in the planning and development of the municipality.

The reeve set up a lands and planning committee with jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to municipal properties, zoning, capital budget, industrial and commercial development, transportation and planning.

It is headed by Coun. Stan Murphy with Couns. George Austin, Charles Nelles and Harold Todd as members.

"As time goes on," said the reeve, "this committee will play an important part in the building of the municipality."

Other standing committees and their members are as follows: Public works, Reeve Chatterton (chairman); Couns. Austin, Murphy, Nelles and Leslie Passmore.

Finance: Coun. Passmore (chairman), and all members of the council.

Municipal parks and recreation: Couns. Nelles (chairman), Austin and Todd.

Health and welfare: Couns. Ainslee Worthington (chairman), Austin and Todd.

Council also approved the following appointments: Reeve Chatterton, Couns. Nelles and Ainslee Worthington, town planning commission; Reeve Chatterton, Capital Region Planning Board; John Oliver, cemetery board; Couns. Nelles and Worthington, Greater Victoria Civil Defence; Reeve Chatterton, Coun. Austin, Greater Victoria Water Board; Reeve Chatterton, Coun. Nelles, Intermunicipal committee; Coun. Worthington, Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Coun. Todd, juvenile detention; Coun. Nelles, Greater Victoria Library Board; Couns. Worthington, Todd, Union Board of Health.

The demonstration—to drive home to the B.C. government the urgency of tackling the unemployment problem in the province—won the support of Victoria's Labor Council's unemployment committee at a Tuesday meeting.

TIME IS RIF

Committee chairman Donald Douglas said, "We are 100 per cent behind this march, and we trust the full (labor) council will support it."

"The time is ripe for some demonstration of this sort. Briefs are apparently ineffective. And many Victorians are not aware of the seriousness of the unemployment situation here."

Shipyard union business agent Ernest Orchin, reporting that 18 members were laid off locally this week, said his local was one of several that had thrown their weight behind the march plan.

The plan will be framed by a coordinating body set up by Nanaimo and District Labor Council.

Curb Credit Urged by Banker

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The head of Canada's largest bank said today Canada seems to have reached the economists' "hell on earth—inflation and unemployment."

The alternately "creeping" credit expands in booms, contracts in recessions.

UNHOLY ALLIANCE
"To break up this unholy alliance of inflation and unemployment, I have repeatedly urged that monetary and credit control should embrace a wider area of our financial world than they now do."

Railway freight rate boosts further distort a price and cost structure already distorted beyond all reason by the Crows Nest Pass rates on wheat, fixed in 1897 and still unchanged, he said.

It is impossible to face 1958 costs with 1897 revenues, therefore the full force of every rate rise since has fallen on other shippers with the result that revenue is spread in complete disproportion to traffic volume.

Mr. Muir attributed the "giddy season" enjoyed by the stock market on the "apparently legitimate expectation that nothing effective will be done on this continent to arrest the steady decline of the once almighty dollar."

"As recovery continues and inflationary pressure grows, the government will have to face either the difficult and unpopular task of increasing taxes," he said.

This is by no means a recession in the classical mould, he said.

"The gross value of our national production... has scarcely faltered in its gradual rise since the beginning of the recession in early 1957; the cost of living, which did not flatten out until May, 1958, resumed its upward march in August to set a new record in the last quarter of the year and in spite of the upturn in business activity, unemployment continued."

Instead of price cuts which could have paved the way to a healthy recovery, easy credit-consumer policy was continued, he said.

"Regardless of the skill and energy of the monetary authorities, an effective monetary policy is impossible so long as consumer credit is free to move in the opposite direction (away from inflation)."

"Unregulated consumer

Girl Guides Launch First Fund Drive for New Campsite Near Sooke

Greater Victoria Girl Guides' Association launches the first public campaign in its 45-year history this week for funds to develop a newly-acquired 160-acre campsite near Sooke.

Mrs. A. G. Gosling, Greater Victoria area commissioner, in command of 1,800 Girl Guides from Victoria, Oak Bay and part of Esquimalt, announced today that letters will be sent out in a mail campaign for financial assistance.

The mail campaign will continue throughout February. The Guides themselves will raise money at a Festival of Camping March 21 in Bay Street Armoury.

The new campsite, purchased for $5,600 and held in trust for the Guides by four benefactors, is located on Coal Creek, off the Jordan River Road, 10 miles west of Sooke.

The Guides need at least $2,000 to develop the site for initial use this summer and about $10,000 for ultimate development of five camps on the property.

The development will be the association's golden jubilee project marking the 50th anniversary of Canadian Guiding, which will be celebrated by members across Canada during 1960.

Mrs. Gosling said the new campsite is needed to accommodate the rapidly expanding membership of the association. Since 1956 the membership has doubled to its present 1,800 level.

"In the next decade we anticipate a membership of up to 5,000," she said.

The association's present six-acre campsite in Sooke will be converted into a Brownie camp for the eight to 11-year-old members of the junior organization.

"We need the support of the general public to develop the new camp. Unlike the Boy Scouts, our organization is not a member of the Community Chest and has been self-supporting since it was organized in 1914," Mrs. Gosling said.

But the Guides need help from community organizations and citizens to carry out their new undertaking. "Our own members will try to raise funds, too, by putting on the Festival of Camping, the first venture of its kind that we have organized," Mrs. Gosling said.

The festival at the armoury, to run from 2 to 9:30 p.m. March 21, will include demonstrations of camping by Guides, exhibits of camping clothes and equipment, home-baking sales and a carnival row of games for children.

Development of the campsite has been divided into two phases.

The short-term program, designed to make the campsite habitable this summer, includes clearing, construction of cooking fires, installation of permanent latrines and partial damming of Coal Creek to create a swimming pool.

About 200 Guides would be accommodated at the camp this summer in groups of about 35, staying for a week or two.

The long-term development program will see ultimate establishment of five camps on the property—each accommodating 35 girls—and construction of a nurse's hut, permanent dining shelters and one large recreation building for poor weather.

"The campsite will be large enough to accommodate any national or international gathering of Guides that might come here and we feel that is an important advantage," Mrs. Gosling said.

"We're hoping, aside from individual contributions, that some of the community service organizations here will help us by undertaking to establish some of the projects, such as the swimming pool, the clearing or the cooking fireplaces."

MONTE ROBERTS

The current issue of Reader's Digest features an article entitled "49 Ways to Make Marriage More Exciting."

My first reaction, on noting this title, was to throw the magazine out the window.

My personal opinion is, there should be an article setting forth 49 ways to make marriage less exciting.

Marriage, per se, is exciting enough to make a man's blood pressure burble, no matter how many years of it he has endured.

The reason for this is, one half of a marriage is a woman, and as long as women are women, there'll be excitement enough, without chasing around for 49 ways to get more of it.

However, in the interest of pure research, I began to read the article.

And the very first of the 49 ways was this:

"Kiss the back of your wife's neck once a day."

(Honest, I am not making this up. It's on page 116 of the January edition.)

Kiss the back of your wife's neck at least once a day!

If I started to follow this advice, MY wife would tell me to see my psychiatrist at least twice a year.

The next item of advice the Reader's Digest offers is this:

"Cry a little—she'll love mothering you."

I don't know how it is with you, but if I went home crying, my wife would ask me where I drank my lunch.

"Ask her advice on business problems, and sometimes take it."

You can always re-finance.

"Kiss her in public. She may look embarrassed, but she'll love it."

Well, THAT should lead to excitement, all right, especially if the wife has a good left hook.

"Never ask her 'what have you done all day, dear?'"

I can't see where this makes any difference to the degree of excitement, because she'll tell you whether you ask her or not.

There are 44 more items of advice in the Reader's Digest list, to make the total 49.

And I would like to add number 50:

CADETS LEANING TO LEEWARD IN ROUGH INITIATION TO SEA

One hundred navy cadets received a rugged introduction to a sea-going career today.

They left Esquimalt Harbor embarked in four frigates for a 30-day training cruise while gale-force winds swept down Juan de Fuca Strait.

The frigates pitched, tossed and rolled as they rounded Race Rocks.

It was first time at sea for most of the cadets, who are enrolled at HMCS Venture, and the results were as could be expected.

The training cruise will take the cadets to the Hawaiian Islands area.

Frigates involved are HMC Ships Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigonish, Beacon Hill. They will return Feb. 8.

64 MPH Gusts Knock Out Power

Gale force winds averaging 44 miles per hour and gusting to 64 swept over Victoria and district today.

are waiting out the storm in sheltered waters.

Floats were broken loose at Oak Bay Boathouse, which is exposed to the southeast gale.

B.C. Electric power lines were blown down at Bay and Bridge Street at 11:36 a.m., leaving Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street plant and several houses without electricity.

A tree was blown down across the driveway at 405 Treebank, narrowly missing a parked car and taking out telephone and light wires.

B.C. Telephone reported fewer interruptions to service than is usual in high winds.

NO TROUBLE

B.C. Power Commission service was uninterrupted up to noon.

The Dominion weather office said the winds would haul around to the southwest this evening and slacken off to 25 miles an hour.

The blow was caused by a "satellite" of a major storm centred west of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Hospital Emergency Cases Soar

But Year-End Troubles Less

Use of Victoria hospital emergency departments increased by nearly 10 per cent in 1958 as year-end figures show a total 23,241 cases handled at Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

Despite the general increase, both hospitals report a drop in the seasonal bug-bear of Christmas-New Year's traffic accident cases.

Favorable driving weather and heavy publicity encouraging safe driving were credited with the improved situation here.

As always, however, there was no relaxation in preparedness for any emergency at either of the general hospitals, which maintain 24-hour emergency wards.

At St. Joseph's, for example, a serious emergency patient can be fully prepared for surgery within 10-20 minutes of his arrival. Equally prompt attention can be given at Jubilee.

Both hospitals accommodate a large number of non-emergency cases at their emergency wards as a convenience to doctors and patients where minor surgery is involved.

TOTAL CASES

Totals of the number of cases handled include these:

In 1957, 21,156 patients went through emergency departments; 10,556 at St. Joseph's and 10,600 at Jubilee.

Last year at St. Joseph's there were 11,041 cases and at Jubilee 12,200.

There was no breakdown on patients handled during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season at Jubilee but at St. Joseph's it was noted there were only nine traffic victims treated against 14 in the same week of 1957.

St. Joseph's emergency handled a total 231 patients in this period of 1958, an increase of 30 over the previous year. Jubilee Hospital breaks down its emergency cases to show that accidents of all kinds—mostly within the home—accounted for 7,513 of the total in 1958. There were 6,650 accident cases in 1957.

Traffic accidents accounted for 357 cases treated at St. Joseph's in 1958; 329 in 1957.

Minor cases accounted for about half the total number of emergency patients at St. Joseph's in both years—5,528 in 1958 and 5,257 in 1957.

MAJOR CASES

Major cases, requiring the operating room, totalled 86 last year and 77 the year previous. Busiest hours encountered at emergency wards are between 9 a.m., 12 noon and 5-9 p.m., with the heaviest months from May-August inclusive.

Third Remand For Farmer In Shooting

Central Saanich farmer Adam Reich was remanded for the third time on a manslaughter charge in police court Tuesday.

A date for preliminary hearing in the shooting death of Arrie Schut, 6½, Dec. 21, was to have been set but was put over to next week due to absence of counsel.

It is expected the hearing will then be set for Jan. 20 in Central Saanich police court. Reich, a next-door neighbor of the Schut family, was charged with manslaughter a few hours after the boy died with a bullet through his upper chest.

The man told police he had taken a shot at a marauding dog on his property, just behind his house, and was unaware that Arrie and playmates were a few hundred feet away on the Schut property.

VICTORIAN Major Ian Grant, 39, now serving with the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade group in Germany, is to be promoted to lieutenant-colonel and appointed to the directing staff of the Royal Military College of Science at Shrivenham, England. Educated in Victoria and at the University of B.C., Major Grant now is commanding officer of the Reconnaissance Squadron of the Lord Strathcona's Horse. He won the DSO in the Italian campaign in the Second World War.

SECOND HONOR FOR GOVERNOR

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross will be a Freeman of port cities on both coasts when he is presented an illuminated parchment by city council later this year.

Mr. Ross was made a Freeman of Saint John, N.B., in 1943 "for his great contribution to port and civic business and his leadership in war industry." As president of the Saint John Drydock Company he played an important role in the development of the port of Saint John.

He was made the fourth Freeman of Victoria at council's inaugural meeting this week for outstanding service during centennial year.

Sneak Preview For Aldermen

City council will see a "sneak preview" of the Capital Region Planning Board's long-awaited master plan at a special meeting next week.

The plan, product of almost five years' work, recommends methods of developing the Greater Victoria area, including all of the Saanich peninsula and western districts almost as far as Langford.

City Hall arranged for Victoria's private advance look at the recommendations in the plan, completed last summer but not released so far by the planning board.

Central Saanich farmer Adam Reich was remanded for the third time on a manslaughter charge in police court Tuesday.

A date for preliminary hearing in the shooting death of Arrie Schut, 6½, Dec. 21, was to have been set but was put over to next week due to absence of counsel.

It is expected the hearing will then be set for Jan. 20 in Central Saanich police court. Reich, a next-door neighbor of the Schut family, was charged with manslaughter a few hours after the boy died with a bullet through his upper chest.

Speedup Asked On Auditorium

Long Delay Upsets Job-Hungry Union

Business manager of a union with one-fifth of its members unemployed today demanded a speed-up in planning the Greater Victoria civic auditorium "so we can put some men to work."

Jack Driscoll, representing local 1,200 electricians, blamed "apathy, combined with a little financial trouble" for collapse of the auditorium project in previous years.

He said building an auditorium would provide jobs for 70 to 100 electricians for up to 18 months.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said an auditorium still is a live issue as far as he is concerned but it "cannot be built overnight."

The city could not build an auditorium without the help of the other Greater Victoria municipalities.

"A lot of preliminary work is needed—getting definite facts and figures on the size, cost, location and operating revenues of an auditorium," he said.

WORKING NOW

"We're working on size and cost right now and as soon as we have all the information we need we will take it up with the other municipalities again and see if something can be done."

Last year the mayor proposed a Greater Victoria civic auditorium to the intermunicipal committee but he met lukewarm response from the other municipal leaders.

Since then, city technical planner Roderick Clark has been investigating various construction methods of reducing the $2,800,000 cost.

BIG PROJECT

Mayor Scourrah also pointed out that the city has undertaken a big project for 1959 already—the View Street mall and parking garage development—which would create employment.

He said many of the jobs created by an auditorium construction would go to members of his union who had been eight months without work, making a "tremendous difference to their lives. There is something wrong when we have 225 electricians looking for work."

"An auditorium would make a big difference to this city—in fact, it would 'make' Victoria."

"During the 1954 electricians' convention in Miami, delegates from the Victoria local suggested the 1958 convention be held in Victoria because we were sure an auditorium to hold it would have been built by then."

"But the auditorium wasn't built and we had to turn the delegates away. One convention alone would bring about 4,000 people to the city, along with considerable revenue."

'Wrapup' Due For 4,000 City Bylaws

City council likely will order a general revision and consolidation this year of its 4,000 bylaws.

Mayor Percy Scourrah today said the proposal will be discussed at a finance committee meeting next week.

Bright Signs for 2 Years With Esks

EDMONTON (CP) — Fullback Johnny Bright, who holds the Canadian record for rushing, signed a two-year contract today with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Mikoyan Guest
Of Cyrus Eaton

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrived here today to spend the day as a guest of industrialist Cyrus Eaton.

Mikoyan and his party were welcomed with a warm handshake by Eaton, but banners on a group of 100 cars, which assembled at the airport some two hours before their arrival from Washington, were not so cordial.

"Mikoyan — go home and take Eaton with you!" was one of the sentiments expressed on placards carried by six organizations in the protest demonstration.

Conspicuous in the crowd were life-size pictures of Mikoyan and Eaton, bearing the caption: "Poison!" One banner read: "Mikoyan — Mass Killer!" More than 100 policemen were on hand to guard Mikoyan and the seven other Russians, including Mikhail Menshikov, Russian ambassador to Washington, and Mikoyan's son, Sergio, but there was no indication of violence.

Police chief Frank Story said his men would not interfere with the protest demonstration unless laws are broken, and a spokesman for the protesting groups, meeting in a vacant store in the Hungarian district, stressed that "our demonstration will be completely lawful. There will be no violence."

Eaton, in welcoming Mikoyan and his party, applauded the increasing exchange of visits between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

Then the 75-year-old Canadian-born financier, who recently visited Russia, lashed out at American foreign policy and laws which prevent extension of huge American loans to finance enormous two-way trade with Russia.

Mikoyan is expected to urge a revival of trade between the two nations.

Eaton, a vigorous advocate of better Soviet-American relations, said he hoped the visit

VANCOUVER 'COPYCATS'
AFTER PAN-AM GAMES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Frank Baker asked city council today to make application to have the 1963 Pan-American Games staged in Vancouver.

His request had support from new Mayor Tom Alsbury. It followed receipt of a letter from Alan McGavin, chairman of the Canadian Pan-American Games Committee, asking applications from Canadian cities.

Victoria city council also is considering applying for the 1963 games. Mayor Percy Scurrell said Tuesday the city may apply. Winnipeg, meanwhile, has had a committee working on an application since last fall.

Picturesque Waters in Violent Mood

Racing clouds and surging seas fled before Southeast gale today as ever-changing winter weather introduced winds to follow snow and rain. Small craft scurried to sheltered waters Tuesday night in face

Farmers
To March
On Ottawa

REGINA (CP) — Prairie

farmers have warned Ottawa to beware the Ides of March.

That is the probable period when hundreds of Westerners will descend on the Canadian capital, demanding deficiency payments for wheat, oats, and barley delivered during the last three years.

President Alf Gleave of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union said in an interview Tuesday plans for the march are progressing well, with the Manitoba and Alberta unions, as well as the Alberta and Saskatchewan wheat pools, behind it. No definite date has been set, he said, "but beware the Ides of March."

The Ides, a feature of the ancient Roman calendar, fall on March 15.

SEEK POLICY

"While our main purpose is to get consideration for the grain producer and to raise the farmer's purchasing power," Mr. Gleave said, "we are interested in establishment of an over-all agricultural policy to assure farmers a fair share of the national income and parity of income."

"Our purpose is not to embarrass the government but to inform the government, the press, and the public about the farmer's plight."

In their march, the farmers will have the moral support of Saskatchewan's CCF government.

REVIEWING CANADA-U.S. TALKS

Canadians Confident
U.S. to End Oil Curb

By HAROLD MORRISON

See also Page 5

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the most significant decisions reached at the Canada-United States talks just concluded, Canadian sources say, is that the two countries now will have a "strong, common approach to the problem of European economic integration."

They are convinced that as a result of the private two-day ministerial discussions, the U.S. will take more vigorous action in the next few months in attempts to end the trade fight between France and Britain and to obtain faster European dismantling of discriminations against North American goods.

These decisions were not readily apparent from the wording of the 1,500-word communiqué issued Tuesday night. Informants said it was necessary to write the statement in general terms for political and other reasons.

Concessions Gained From U.S.

On the domestic scene, Canadians feel they got a few concessions from the Americans which again were not too clearly stated in the communiqué. They feel they will get sympathetic American consideration when the current voluntary U.S. oil import curbs are changed Feb. 28.

There is high hope here that the curbs will be eliminated as far as Canada is concerned, perhaps on the grounds that the cross-border flow of oil should not be impeded because of the needs of continental defence.

There is confidence here that the Americans will be more careful in dealing with issues which could impinge on Canadian sovereignty over Canadian companies. The meeting is likely to lead to an American review of the U.S. anti-trust lawsuit dealing with American establishment of an electronics patents pool in Canada.

Definite decisions were not reached on every issue before the ministers. No one in Canadian quarters expected they would be. But they feel that progress is being made.

At the power enquiry, raising a question may often lower a boom.

With his itinerary, Mister Mikoyan seems to be Russian in more ways than one.

Columbia River
Plan First He Urges Hearing

By HAL MALONE

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer are talking the "sheerest kind of economic poppycock" when they say the Columbia, Peace River power schemes can be developed simultaneously.

H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of the B.C. Power Commission made this unequivocal statement to the Shrum Royal Commission today.

Mr. Briggs also told the Shrum Commission:

1. There should be several years between the development of the Columbia and the Peace with the Columbia taking precedence;

2. The Canadian side of the Columbia has a potential of 100 horsepower and the Canadian-controlled storage may be worth as much as 1,300,000 horsepower.

Premier Bennett reacted strongly when he was told by the Shrum Commission that private power costs more than public power because of the difference in the treatment of corporation income taxes;

4. That the premier told power commissioners they could tell him what they wanted if we liked, but letters were not to be written in ink;

5. That public ownership of a natural monopoly such as power—"using the resources of the people"—is not Socialism "but economic common sense";

6. Columbia power could be brought to the coast in large quantities for two to three mills;

7. That the BCE told the Public Utilities Commission in 1957 its anticipated annual load growth requirements were 220,000 horsepower; and

8. That Peace River Canyon power (promoted by Axel Wenner-Gren and the Peace River Power Development Corporation) will not be developed except in a small way, unless and until:

(a) An extremely large power-consuming industry, requiring several hundred thousand horsepower, be established in the region;

(b) A shortage of lower cost hydro power develops in the central, southern or coastal regions of B.C., Alberta or the U.S.;

(c) A private company commences a superficial development with the intention of complying with the minimum government requirements to retain the developmental licence over a period of years, in order that eventually, it may own and control "this tremendous block of 4,000,000 horsepower."

Shrum Asks Gibbs for Correction

At the outset of today's hearing, Dr. Shrum called on Liberal MLA Archie Gibbs to correct an erroneous statement he made in a CBC political broadcast Monday.

Mr. Gibbs, who was not present today, told his radio audience Monday that the Shrum Commission "had refused Mr. Briggs' counsel an opportunity to cross-examine Dr. J. V. Fisher, government economic adviser."

Mr. Briggs' evidence on public-private power and power development by the Power Commission in the Peace River and northern interior was allowed by Dr. Shrum over the double objections of A. Bruce Robertson, counsel for the B.C. Power Corporation and its affiliated companies, including the B.C. Electric.

Mr. Robertson, who is also a director of Peace River Power Development Corporation, said Mr. Briggs' testimony on public-private power "bears no relation to the terms

Seizure Power Used Again
If Needed, Unions Warned

Premier Bennett has told the B.C. Federation of Labor he will use the Civil Defence Act again in a labor dispute if he considers it necessary, a federation official disclosed Tuesday.

Pat O'Neal, newly-appointed federation secretary, said Mr. Bennett made the statement after hearing a brief from the federation in Victoria.

The federation asked the provincial government to request a ruling from the courts on the Bennett administration's seizure of the Black Ball ferry fleet last summer when the line was tied up by a labor dispute.

The seizure was made under powers given the government through the Civil Defence Act. "We protested to the premier on his use of the Civil Defence Act in labor disputes," O'Neal told Vancouver Labor Council.

O'Neal said the situation posed "a serious and grave threat" to organized labor.

The federation earlier dropped plans to test the legality of the seizure.

The 110,000-member organization's lawyers advised against court action because

"previous court rulings reflect that judges have not looked with favor on pursuing a subject through the courts when the particular incident no longer exists."

The federation had doubled its budget and increased dues to pay for a court test.

O'Neal also reported Premier Bennett said the government could have taken over the B.C. Electric Co. "many years ago" but that now it was too big to buy.

The federation official said the premier made his remarks in reply to submissions that power companies should be publicly owned.

... BRIGGS

On the Peace, it seems to me that you wouldn't develop 4,000,000 horsepower right away. You would build one dam first, then another."

"That is so," agreed Mr. Briggs. "But the transmission lines for one dam alone means you are dealing in the neighborhood of $200,000,000."

Mr. Briggs said the development of the Canadian Columbia and the Peace would take "half a billion dollars of somebody's money... and inexorably the industry, commerce and people of British Columbia will pay for their electric rates, in their taxes, or in other ways."

When Canadian storage is developed on the Columbia, it is "only prudent and economically sensible" that the sale of a portion of the downstream benefits be permitted to large American utilities on a withdrawable basis for a limited period of years.

SNOW DRIFTS STALL TRAINS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) - Two trains carrying 700 weary passengers arrived here Tuesday night. One was 36 hours late and the other 64.

They were stuck in snow drifts in the Clarendonville area. A westbound train which left St. John's Jan. 2 arrived at Port aux Basques today - more than 100 hours behind schedule. The 550-mile trip normally takes 24 hours. It was also stuck near Clarendonville.

Gales Lash Europe Coast

LONDON (UPI) - Howling gales with a hurricane force lashed northern Europe today, killing at least four persons and filling the air with SOS calls from stricken shipping.

The known fatalities occurred in Kjoefeljord, Norway, where an avalanche swept a hillside home into the sea. A 60-year-old man, his daughter and her two infant children were carried away.

Snow and ice blanketed northern England and Scotland, while further south the River Welland was near the flood stage. Towering breakers flooded the coast road near the English town of Doverport.

Rocket Orbits Sun

LONDON (AP) - The Soviet space rocket went into orbit around the sun today and became the first artificial planet of the solar system, Moscow Radio said. The broadcast said the rocket has covered a distance of 14,560,000 kilometers (9,062,500 miles).
